J. BASSETT MOORE, STATE DEPARTMENT COUNSELLOR, QUITS

President Accepts Resignation of Noted Authority on International Law, Who, Official Circles Say, Had Agreed to Serve Only for One Year.

FRICTION WITH HIS SUPERIORS DENIED

Official Said to Have Given Hearty Support to Bryan and Wilson — President Prepares to Issue Statement on This Phase.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—John Bassett Moore, Counsellor of the State Department, who ranks as Acting Secretary, has resigned and his resignation has been accepted by President Wilson.

For the present Moore will continue his work here for the Carnegie Institute and later will resume his connection with Columbia University. No announcement as to his probable successor was made today.

Moore's impending resignation has been rumored for several weeks, and each time had met with unqualified denial. Various reports have had it that there was a lack of harmony in his views and those of higher officials, but they never were supported by anything official.

Agreed to Serve Only a Year.

It was explained in official quarters that Moore was quitting the State Department in accordance with an understanding he had with President Wilson when he took the office of counselor last May. In order to obtain Moore's services, an arrangement was made by which the counselor was to act as secretary in the absence of the head of the State Department and in other ways was recognized as second only to Secretary Bryan himself. On those conditions Moore undertook to give his services to the State Department for the first year of its administration to assist in carrying out the new policies in contemplation and in reorganizing the forces so far as might be incident to the change of administration.

It was declared by officials that the Mexican question had no connection with Moore's retirement. That he had his own views as to the manner of handling the situation, and that they were not at all points in accord with the administration policies, has been a common report, but, nevertheless, it was pointed out today that Counsellor Moore had lent loyal support to the President and Secretary Bryan in the execution of their plans at all times.

It was understood that in a statement later today, President Wilson would take occasion to emphasize that Moore leaves the State Department without friction and that the most amicable relations will continue to exist.

Not Consulted Extensively.

The possibility of the resignation of Moore was suggested strongly in the anti-administrative press at the time he left the State Department on a month's leave of absence, last September. It then was said that he had been disappointed keenly at the result of five months' work in the department which Bryan dominated.

One of Moore's disappointments, it was said, was that he was not consulted more extensively in regard to the shaping of the administration's foreign policy. It is declared he first learned of President Wilson's determination to send John Lind to Mexico when it was announced in the newspapers.

He served as Assistant Secretary of State under President McKinley in the trying times of the Spanish-American War and was sent by Presidents Roosevelt and Taft as delegate to the Pan-American congresses in Rio Janeiro and Santiago.

Although it was said that Moore was consulted liberally in the early stages of the Japanese difficulty, he had little hand in the shaping of the Government's policy toward Mexico, being occupied largely with work which was more or less of a routine nature.

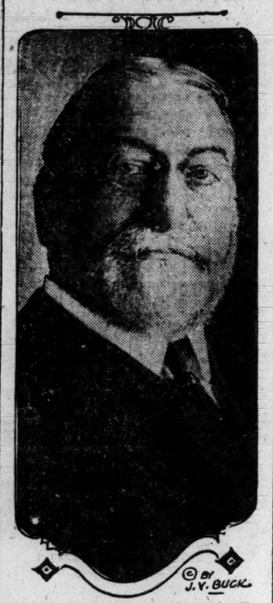

This situation, it was said, proved irksome to Moore, whose standing as a great authority on international law and usages was considered responsible for his appointment as counselor.

Took Place After Urging.

Moore had served twice before in the same department under other administrations and was familiar in advance of the duties which naturally would be required of him. He accepted the appointment from President Wilson only after considerable urging, on the ground that he could be of great assistance to the new administration in confronting the problems which had been left unsolved in the Taft regime.

Moore, in 1906, published an eight-volume digest of international law which became a standard and recognized authority. At the time of his appointment he was the Hamilton Fish professor of international law at Columbia University, associate of the Institute of International Law, author of a treatise on extradition and interstate rendition, of "American Notes on the Conflict of Laws," of a history and digest of international arbitrations and of an exposition of the spirit and achievement of American diplomacy.

C. W. POST'S SPECIAL TRAIN COSTS HIM $4000

Car for Each of Four Passengers on Train Rushing Manufacturer to Hospital.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 4.—Each passenger on the special train on the Santa Fe Railroad that is carrying C. W. Post, the breakfast food manufacturer to Rochester, Minn., where he will undergo a major operation, could have one car to himself, if he so desired.

There are four people on the train and there are four cars, a baggage car, two tourist sleepers and an observation Pullman. With Post is his wife, a physician and a nurse.

The train is costing Post $4000, 75 full first-class passenger fares from Los Angeles to Minneapolis, and the usual Pullman fares in addition.

The train is due in Kansas City Thursday night and will proceed to Rochester over the Chicago Great Western.

The engine crews were selected with greatest care and special instructions were issued from the general offices here today that the train must be fired as little as possible. Easy stops and starts were required by the physician accompanying Mr. Post.

PARIS' "SIAMESE TWINS" PARTED SUCCESSFULLY

PARIS, March 4.—The delicate operation of separating the "Siamese twins," Madeleine-Suzanne, who had been born united, was performed successfully here today.

No such operation has taken place in France since Dr. Doyen in 1902 separated the two Hindu children, Radica-Roodica, who died of tuberculosis after the operation.

The twins operated on today were born Nov. 28, 1913. At birth they weighed 10 pounds. Both children appeared perfectly healthy and were extremely lively.

Madeleine-Suzanne were joined in the region of the stomach. The junction was of the most superficial kind and an X-ray examination showed that there was no organ of importance in the uniting membrane.

MONARCH HEARS MARCONI

ROME, March 4.—William Marconi delivered a lecture last night in the ancient Circus of Augustus before King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena, and all the notables in Rome. Marconi He predicted the early success of radiotelephony, declaring that the human voice could be projected across the ocean by this method more quickly than a message could be sent by cable.

JEWELRY CLERK RAISES SUCH A DIN 3 ROBBERS FLEE

PROTECTS STORE STOCK

William Koetter in Market Street Shop Acts So Quickly Men Run; One Is Caught.

When three men, armed with a revolver, a knife and brass "knucks," attempted to rob the jewelry store of Frank H. Niehaus at 1726 Market street at 8:30 a. m. Wednesday, William Koetter, a clerk, gave an alarm by hurling cut glass and a clock through the plate glass window and the robbers fled. One was arrested.

Koetter had just opened the store and unlocked the safe, containing, he said, $15,000 worth of diamonds and other jewelry, and was taking trays from the safe to place in the show window when the three men entered. One pointed a revolver at him. In the hands of the others he saw a knife and "knucks." One of them commanded him to throw up his hands.

Bowl Crashes Through Glass.

Koetter had been placing trays on a revolving apparatus in the show window and was standing near the window. He had a revolver under the counter, but could not get to it. Two of the men had started toward the safe.

"You'll have to commit murder on this job," cried Koetter.

Leaping into the show window he caught up a heavy cut glass bowl and hurled it through the plate glass and then sent a clock crashing through the glass.

Clerk Falls and Is Hurt.

In attempting to pick up another clock to hurl at the robbers he slipped and fell, striking his wrist on broken glass and gashing it severely.

The robbers, without tarrying to steal anything, ran from the store. Two ran west on Market street and lost themselves in the crowd. The third started east on Market. He had run only a few steps when he collided with an elderly man and both fell.

Simon Fox, a clerk for the Castor Jewelry and Loan Co., 1723 Market street, ran across the street and seized the man and told him he was under arrest. The man supposed Fox was an officer and submitted. A policeman arrived a moment later and took charge of the man.

The man was taken to the Central Police Station. No weapon was found on him. He said the weapons were carried by the other two, said the police.

He said he was Huner Watkins, 19 years old. He had arrived a few days ago from Hot Springs, Ark., and had been staying at 821 Market street. He declared he did not know who the other two men were. He met them Tuesday night at Eighth and Market streets, he said. They proposed that he join them in "sticking up a place," and walked up Market street and picked out the Niehaus store as a good place to "stick up." In the morning they watched until Koetter opened the store and unlocked the safe and then entered.

Koetter says the three men were in the store Monday and Tuesday looking at diamonds, but made no purchase. Koetter lives at 4568 Laclede avenue. He is Niehaus' brother-in-law.

Recalled Mayor Comes Back by 14,000

SEATTLE, Wash., March 4.—The surprise of yesterday's city election was the great majority—14,000—by which Hiram C. Gill, who was recalled as Mayor two years ago, was chosen Mayor. Gill carried every ward but one, and got big majorities in residence districts where he always had been beaten before.

SAYS ROOSEVELT WAS UNGENEROUS IN SOUTH AMERICA

BRAZILIANS WERE AMAZED

Colonel's Visit Has Been Prejudicial to American Interests, J. T. Lefenstry Declares.

CHICAGO, March 4.—The following cablegram from London is printed in the Daily News:

"'Ungenerous, not to say grasping, describes some of Theodore Roosevelt's acts in South America, if reports current there may be believed," said John T. Lenfestry of Chicago, on reaching London from Rio de Janeiro, after a tour of the principal South American countries in the interest of closer trade relations between the continents on the Western Hemisphere.

Mr. Lenfestry carried letters of recommendation from Secretary of State Bryan, Wilbur John Carr and Harry A. Wheeler, and represented the Chamber of Commerce of the United States and the Chicago Association of Commerce.

"My mission," continued Mr. Lenfestry, "brought to my attention a number of things prejudicial to the spread of American influence and business in the republics of South America. Mr. Roosevelt left an unfortunate impression wherever he went. Reports adverse to him reached me from responsible sources in Santiago, Buenos Ayres, Montevideo and Rio de Janeiro.

Palace Turned Over to Him.

"His conduct in Rio de Janeiro was the subject of native comment of a particularly scathing character. He arrived there Oct. 21, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, a niece and his son Kermit, and was received by the President's representatives, Government officials and the diplomatic corps. He was conducted to the Guanabara Palace, facing the beautiful Rua Pasandu, the 'Street of a Thousand Palms.' The palace was evacuated by the President, who placed it, with 100 servants, at the disposal of the Roosevelt party.

"The visitors stayed a week, and were the recipients of regal hospitality, banquets, Government and civic honors, numerous automobile drives and private court sies from many notables. Roosevelt was urged to entertain whom he pleased in the palace, as 40 covers were regularly laid, but only six or eight were used.

"On his third or fourth night in Rio de Janeiro, Roosevelt spoke 30 minutes on relations between the United States and the South American republics before the Rio de Janeiro Historical and Geographical Society, which had invited him to South America, and made him an honorary member, the highest honor it could confer. The audience was composed of Ambassadors, Generals, leading politicians and members of society, possibly 100 in all.

"On the night of Oct. 26, Roosevelt left for Sao Paulo in a special train, provided for by the Government, on the Central Brazil Railroad. He visited points of interest on the line, looked over the capital and the State of Sao Paulo and continued on his journey to Buenos Aires at the expense of the Brazilian Government.

Charges $3000 for Lecture.

"After all this, the Historical and Geographical Society received from Roosevelt a bill for $3000 for his brief lecture. Already $40,000 or $50,000 had been spent on the visitors in entertainment. The Brazilians politely paid the bill, but they cannot conceal their amazement.

"When the American residents of Rio de Janeiro learned the fact their humiliation was inexpressible. The story was published in the Journal de Commerce. I personally asked the Count Candid Mendes d'Almeida, owner of the Journal de Brazil, if the story was true, and he answered, 'Yes.'

"I was told that Roosevelt, while everywhere accepting public and private hospitality on an extravagant scale, charged for all of his speeches. He also harped on the Monroe doctrine and Pan-American solidarity in a way that struck South Americans as offensive. These stories about Mr Roosevelt I do not repeat out of any ill-feeling for him, but to emphasize the fact that such treatment postpones indefinitely that reapproachment with South America which we all want and which some of us are trying hard to obtain."

CAR HITS COAL DEALER

John McCuaig Seriously Hurt Crossing Hodiamont Line.

John McCuiag, 55 years old, who conducts a coal yard at Twenty-first street and Franklin avenue, was run down and seriously injured by an eastbound Hodiamont car at Twenty-first and Wash streets at 8:50 a. m. Wednesday. He was taken to the city hospital, where it was found he had a fractured leg and a serious scalp wound.

McCuiag, who was crossing from the south to the north side of Wash street, on the east side of Twenty-first street, was knocked down.

FIREMAN KILLED IN 3-STORY FALL AT DOWNTOWN BLAZE

FLAMES HARD TO FIGHT

Fire at Third and Locust Controlled After Four Hours—Damage Is $50,000.

Charles Nester of 909 Lami street, a member of Truck Company 6, fell three stories down a skylight shaft at 4 a. m. Wednesday, while carrying a line of hose over the roof of an adjoining building to fight a fire which was sweeping the upper floors of the building at the northwest corner of Third and Locust streets, numbered 403 North Third and 303 Locust street. He struck the framework about the skylight, suffered severe scalp wounds and internal injuries and was taken to the city hospital, where he died at 12:45 p. m.

The fire, which was the third big downtown blaze in four days, caused a loss of $50,000 or more to the building and the stocks of the printing and paper box companies which occupied it. Because of the quantity of gasoline kept in the various establishments for use in connection with the machinery, the fire proved unusually hard for the firemen to handle.

Water Ankle Deep in Street.

At 8 a. m., after the firemen had been pouring water into the building more than four hours, the sewer openings were clogged, and water stood ankle deep in the street, while a stream raced toward the river.

The first floor of the building is occupied by the printing supply firm of Barnhart Bros. & Spindler. Apparently the fire started on the second floor, in the plant of the Ev. E. Carreras Printing Co. On the third floor is the Mercantile Box and Label Co., and on the fourth the Voigtmann company, manufacturers of boxes and jewelry trays. The Parker-Welch Printing Co. is in the basement. The first floor is entered from the Third street side, the upper floors from Locust street. The Allen estate owns the building.

The fire was seen, shortly after 3:30, by night employes of the Woodward & Tiernan Printing Co., across the street. One of them ran to No. 6's house, Third and Vine streets, and gave the alarm.

To get action on the fire from above Nester and several comrades carried a hose line to the roof of the four-story building at 409 North Third street, intending to carry it across adjoining roofs and as near as possible to the burning building.

Making his way over the roof of 409 North Third street, in the darkness, Nester stepped off into the skylight shaft, which is about 12 feet square, and unprotected by any railing. His comrades heard him groaning at the foot of the shaft, above the first story, and, hurrying there, took him off and carried him outside. Meantime, others carried the hose on until it was playing water on the corner building almost directly from above.

Nine Streams of Little Effect.

This would have put out any ordinary fire, but, as Chief Swingley said later, "You can't put out burning gasoline with water." Even with three lines of water from above, two from the Woodward & Tiernan windows across the street and four from Locust street, the fire still burned brightly on the second and third floors. The fire was under control about 8:30.

The cause of the fire was not known. E. A. Tracy of 5338 Bartmer avenue, manager of the Barnhart & Spindler establishment on the first floor, said the company's stock was valued at nearly $75,000, and was covered by insurance.

J. H. Ewing, president of the Mercantile Box and Label Co., estimated the loss to his stock between $8000 and $9000, with $5000 insurance.

Nester is survived by a wife and a 7-year-old son. They went to the hospital as soon as word of the accident was taken to Mrs. Nester.

Edward E. Felkel, owner and manager of the Farmers' Commission Co., 201 Chamber of Commerce Building, will test in the courts the right of the board of directors of the Merchants' Exchange to expel him from membership in the exchange.

An official notice announcing Felkel's expulsion was posted on the exchange bulletin board by Secretary Eugene Smith at the opening of Wednesday's session. It stated that Felkel had been "found guilty of an act detrimental to the interest and welfare of the Merchants' Exchange.

Says He'll Go to Court.

Felkel, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter, said:

"I shall apply to the courts for an injunction to prevent my expulsion. I think the directors of the exchange have exceeded their authority, and I do not believe there is a court in the land that will uphold their action."

Marshall Hall, president of the Merchants' Exchange, said that Felkel's expulsion was in compliance with a rule of the exchange which empowers the board of directors to expel any member for conduct believed to be detrimental to the organization.

Hall said the expulsion was ordered because of advertising circulars which Felkel mailed to many Illinois farmers. In this circular, Hall said, Felkel named many important Merchants' Exchange firms in a way that suggested the farmers should not do business with those firms.

Suspended in 1912.

The circulars were mailed shortly after Felkel, at the exchange election a year ago, had made an unsuccessful effort to have James A. McCreery of Mason City, Ill., placed on the ticket as candidate for director. It was ruled that McCreery was not eligible, as he was a nonresident.

Felkel was suspended from the exchange for three months in November, 1912, for the publication in a trade journal of an article which the directors considered detrimental to the exchange's interests. He has been a member of the exchange since 1892 and until about a year ago he did business as the Missouri Commission Co. His trade was mostly in the cash grain market.

MRS. WILSON RECOVERING

President's Wife Suffering From Shock From a Fall.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson was recovering today from the shock of a fall on the White House floor last Sunday.

She sustained no injuries and expects to be up and about in a day or two.

J. Ormand Graham, Youthful Husband, to Start Business Here After Honeymoon.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Ormond Graham, who are spending their honeymoon at the Hotel Chamberlain at Old Point Comfort, will return to Washington some day this week for a brief stay prior to their departure for St. Louis, where the bridegroom contemplates a business career. The bride, until her sudden marriage last week, was Miss Harriet Bagnell, 18 years old, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Bagnell of 3826 Cozens avenue, Jennings, St. Louis County, and niece of William Bagnell of 12 Westmoreland place, wealthy St. Louis lumberman.

In her circle of friends here the bride is known as "The Girl in Red." She gained this sobriquet while a schoolgirl by having an automobile "made to order," costing $5000. All its appointments are finished in red.

Invariably the bride dresses in a red plush dress and a large picture hat when driving her car. Her school chums described her as a "picture" in her motor car, and she was well known among motor enthusiasts of the younger Washington set.

Mrs. Bagnell did not know of her daughter's marriage for two days. Twenty-four hours before the wedding ceremony Miss Bagnell and Mr. Graham took the young man's mother, Mrs. Andrew B. Graham, into their confidence. They had already confided in Miss Jane Isagnell, an elder sister. There was no opposition, and the couple were married in the rectory of St. Paul's Catholic Church.

The couple first met when Miss Bagnell entered the fashionable Cloverside School in the Avenue of the Presidents about two years ago. She was graduated last June, and after spending the vacation period at her home in St. Louis returned for a special course in music and French. She was accompanied by her sister as chaperon.

Graham, who is 23 years old, formerly was employed in the Federal National Bank in Washington. Wanting to see more of the country he joined fortunes with Frank Keenan on the vaudeville stage. He followed this career for several months last year, but on the solicitation of his fiancee, gave it up last fall.

DYING OF POISON BEAN

Student Chews Jequirity Seed After Hearing Lecture on It.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Samuel Borkin, a student of the New York College of Pharmacy, chewed a jequirity bean after hearing a lecture on its medicinal properties, and today is dying in Harlem Hospital.

The jequirity bean is the seed of wild licorice, which grows in tropical countries. It is highly poisonous.

HOUSE LEADERS PLAN TO FORCE 2 BRIDGE ELECTIONS

Gallagher and McCarthy Say They Are Unwilling to Have Delegates Pass Ordinance Submitting Reber Approach Bonds Even if Petitioned To.

A. & M. Supporters, at Democratic Caucus, Attempt to Commit Party to Delay, but Owen, Monahan and Stuart Protest.

Mayor Says He Understood From Gallagher That the House Would Save Extra $60,000 Expense.

James J. Gallagher and John B. McCarthy, leaders of the A. & M. supporters in the House of Delegates, have started a movement to compel the Citizens' Free Bridge Committee to submit to the delay of two elections before the bridge can be completed through the initiative law.

Practically all of the Democratic majority met after the House adjourned Tuesday night and an effort was made to commit all present to the two elections scheme.

The Citizens' Committee had hoped that the House of Delegates, upon the presentation of the certified initiative petitions, would exercise its power to pass immediately an ordinance calling a special bond issue election so that the free bridge question could be disposed of not later than June.

Gallagher Sees the Mayor.

"There has been no caucus of the Democratic members of the House of Delegates," Gallagher said. "I went to see Mayor Kiel Monday and told him what I was willing to do.

"So far as I am concerned, as soon as the initiative petitions come in, I will favor special meetings of the House of Delegates to call a special election on the ordinance itself. I will not vote for the submission of the Reber approach bond issue, even after the petitions are signed.

"If the people want the initiative we are going to give it to them."

"But if the people show by signing the initiative petitions that they want a chance to vote directly on the Reber approach bond issue, will you then take the position of refusing to call a special bond issue election, and make two special elections necessary?" he was asked.

"I am against the Reber approach," he said. "Two elections will be necessary under the initiative. I know it will take 10 months' more time if two elections are held, but I don't care if it takes two years.

"There will be no delay by the House of Delegates in calling the election on the ordinance."

McCarthy Silent on Caucus.

McCarthy, who was interviewed by telephone, said he was too busy at the time to give a list of the Delegates who attended the caucus. He and Gallagher have been largely responsible for holding the Democrats together in opposition to the demand for the submission of the Reber approach.

Dr. R. Emmett Owen of the Fifteenth Ward said he did not attend any caucus, and knew nothing of any being held. McCarthy declared the Democrats did not wish to assume any responsibility for submitting the Reber approach bond issue to the people, but wished to throw the entire responsibility on the people themselves.

Mayor Kiel said Gallagher did call on him Monday and discuss the free bridge situation with him.

"I understood from his statement then that he would be willing to submit the bond issue proposition direct without the necessity of two special elections," Mayor Kiel said. "He seemed to indicate that he would be willing to save the taxpayers the expense of one special election and the time required to hold it.

"It seems to me that it would be a shame to squander the $60,000 or more of the taxpayers' money required for a special election on an ordinance which the Municipal Assembly itself could pass without any cost."

McCarthy Speaker at Caucus.

A Democratic member of the House, who asked that his name be not used, said a meeting was held in one of the committee rooms at the city Hall Tuesday night, all 17 of the Democratic members being present.

He said Gallagher presided, and that John R. McCarthy did most of the talking. McCarthy explained the law of the initiative, he said. Gallagher followed McCarthy, he said, and declared employers were going to coerce factory workers to sign the petitions. Gallagher declared many employes would sign the petitions who would vote against the Reber approach bonds.

The Citizens' Committee has declared from the beginning that no signatures would be obtained in factories or business houses, and that all the work of getting names would be done either at meetings of improvement associations or in the wards and precincts. This statement has been printed repeatedly. Speaker Gazzolo and Delegates Hoffner and Whalen also participated in the discussion, according to one member.

An attempt was made to commit the 17 Democratic members to the Gallagher-McCarthy policy of requiring two elections, this member said, but three refused to stand for that scheme. The attempt was made on a motion for a roll call The three Delegates who refused to bind themselves to the Gallagher-McCarthy scheme were Dr. Robert Emmett Owen of the Fifteenth Ward, Edward Monahan of the Twentieth and Charles F. Stuart of the Twenty-seventh.

On account of the decisive stand taken by the three members, no rollcall was taken, it was stated.

Meeting of 75 Organizations' Representatives Arranges for Initiative Petitions.

A city-wide campaign to obtain signatures to initiative petitions for the completion of the free bridge was planned at a meeting of 250 representatives of 75 business and civic organizations at the Odeon Tuesday night. This plan was adopted:

1. To prepare and distribute initiative petitions among the organizations comprising the Citizens' Free Bridge Committee, together with an initiative ordinance providing for a bond issue of $2,750,000 to build the Reber approach as an elevated structure across the Terminal belt line in East St. Louis, terminating outside the city limits of East St. Louis on the land acquired by the city for the Associated Retailers' Extension.

2. To call special meetings of all the district associations next week to have the petitions signed by their members and as many voters as can be induced to go to the meetings.

Thorough Canvass Planned.

3. To have made a thorough canvass of all the wards and precincts of the city by volunteers to be supplied from the different organizations.

4. To appoint a Publicity and Educational Committee to publish and distribute pamphlets on the free bridge situation, the object of which will be to prove to the people that the Reber approach is the best, cheapest and only practicable approach.

Enough volunteers were promised by the presidents and secretaries of the organizations represented at the meeting to cover nearly every precinct in the city. Organizations having local memberships, such as the North St. Louis Business Men's Association, the West End Business Men's Association, the Tower Grove Heights Improvement Association and the Carondelet Business Men's Association, will undertake to make a thorough canvass of all the wards and precincts embraced in the districts in which their members live.

Organizations like the Real Estate Salesmen's Association, the Team Owners' Association and others having a membership scattered throughout the city, will furnish volunteers to aid in circulating the petitions. There are 19 strictly local organizations affiliated with the Citizens' Free Bridge Committee, and these organizations will cover a large part of the north, northwest, west, south and southwest sections of the city.

Central Headquarters.

All the detail, such as the handling of clerical work, the distribution of petitions, the assignment of canvassers, will be handled through the central organization of the Citizens' Committee, of which Thomas H. Lovelace is secretary. The representatives of many of the organizations promised to send to Lovelace within the next day or two the names of their members who would volunteer to circulate petitions.

J. H. Wedemeyer, president of the North St. Louis Business Men's Association, and a member of the special campaign committee, said that his organization had 1250 members, living in three or four of the North End wards. At a meeting of the officers and directors next week, about 30 in number, he said, the directors would assume responsibility for the districts in which they lived, and each would appoint 10 or more volunteers to circulate the petitions. The first effort, he said, would be to get every member of the association to sign the petitions, then every business man in the district and then the general voters.

J. E. Turner, another member of the Special Committee, speaking for the West End Business Men's Association, said his organization, with more than 1000 members, would undertake to get all their signatures, and issue a call for volunteers to make the precinct canvasses. He said the secretary of the association was willing to guarantee 5 per cent of the necessary 30,000 signatures.

John Schmoll, speaking as vice-president of the Tower Grove Heights Improvement Association, promised to get 50 per cent of the necessary signatures. These two organizations voluntarily pledged themselves to one-fourth of all the signatures needed.

John Uthoff, president of the Carondelet Business Men's Association, said his organization, together with the South End Business Men's Association, would take care of the Twelfth Ward; Christy M. Farrar of the Affiliated Improvement Associations of Northwest St. Louis, promised to take care of the precincts of the Twenty-seventh Ward lying in the extreme northwest section of the city.

Offers 20 Canvassers.

R. D. W. Bauldauf of the Real Estate Salesmen's Association agreed to furnish 20 canvassers to work in such districts as they might be assigned to by the central headquarters. He said he believed the different organizations represented in the free bridge movement could supply enough canvassers to cover the entire city in three nights. Mike Kelly of the Retail Grocers' Association promised that his organization would do its share of the work, and J. D. Lukenbill of the Master Butchers' Association pledged the hearty co-operation of its members.

Henry W. Barth, president of the Tenth Ward Improvement Association, promised to get canvassers immediately to start the work as soon as the initiative petitions were printed. Earle Layman of the Life Underwriters' Association said his organization would furnish expert canvassers to work in any district to which they were assigned.

H. J. Bube of the Millinery Traveling Men's Association urged haste in the circulation of the petitions. He said many traveling men would be leaving the city within the next 10 days and that many of the 6000 to 8000 drummers would like to sign the bridge petitions before they got away.

Edward Weber, president of the Team Owners' Association, said the members of his organization were eager to have the bridge completed to get rid of the 35 cents toll charges on each trip across the Eads Bridge. All the members would get busy with the petitions, he said, and co-operate earnestly in the work of completing the bridge.

The representatives of some of the other organizations who promised to help in the movement were George Burlew of the Harney Heights Improvement Association, George Heick of the South Side Welfare and Improvement Association; George F. E. Bruggeman of the American Institute of Architects, and H. B. Wiley of the Compton Hill Protective Association.

Negro Voters Interested.

Eugene Stinde said he had interested his negro barber, his bootblack and his janitor in the free bridge campaign and that these men had promised to get the signatures of at least 1000 negro voters.

On a motion made by Richard S. Hawes, vice-president of the Third National Bank, Chairman Shapleigh of the Citizens' Committee was directed to appoint an educational and publicity committee to publish facts pertaining to the free bridge and the campaign to complete it. The motion included a vote of appreciation to the newspapers for their support of the campaign.

Sam D. Capen, president of the Business Men's League, said the co-operation of more than 70 organizations with a membership of 43,000 meant the completion of the free bridge. If the organizations would continue to stand together for the interests of St. Louis he said it would have the effect of creating a new civic pride.

He said the clerical force and the records of the Business Men's League would be available to the organizations of St. Louis in any movement in which they were interested, and invited them to make use of them.

A letter from the law firm of Stewart, Bryan & Williams on the length of time required to have the bond issue voted upon was read by Shapleigh. If the initiative process had to be carried out in its entirety, through two special elections, the lawyers said the bond issue election could not be held until October. The election on the preliminary ordinance, authorizing the bond issue election, would be held in August or September.

It was pointed out that if the Municipal Assembly passed the bond issue election ordinance, upon presentation of the petitions, the election on the bonds could be held in June. Chairman Shapleigh expressed the hope that the Municipal Assembly, when the petitions were presented, would pass the ordinance, thus saving the expense of one special election, and making it possible to dispose of the bond issue question possibly in May and certainly in June.

RUDYARD KIPLING IS ILL

Poet-Novelist Returns From Switzerland; Ordered to France.

LONDON, March 4.—Rudyard Kipling, who returned from Switzerland only a couple of weeks ago, was almost immediately ordered by his doctors to Vernets les Bains in the Eastern Pyrenees.

The novelist and poet is suffering with a nervous trouble. The report published here that his condition was causing anxiety is said to be untrue. Three years ago he was cured at Vernets-les-Pains of a similar illness.

TWO GROCERS ACCUSED UNDER DRAMSHOP LAW

Drivers for J. F. Weber and H. Luecke Also Charged With Selling 6 Bottles of Beer.

Warrants were issued Wednesday by Prosecuting Attorney Sidener against John F. Weber, grocer, 4200 Olive street; Herman W. Luecke, grocer, 4507 Olive street; John Rayner, driver for Weber, and Frank Scharasinsky, driver for Luecke, charging them with selling beer in less than three-gallon quantities without a dramshop license.

A few days ago information was received by the police through an anonymous letter that certain grocers were selling bottled beer in smaller quantities than the law allows. Special officers were assigned to investigate.

They called up the Weber store and ordered six bottles of beer to be sent c. o. d. to a given address. Rayner delivered the beer and the officers paid for it. They then called up the Luecke store and ordered six bottles sent to a given address. The six bottles were delivered by Scharasinsky and the officers paid for it.

ILLINOISAN TO WED BY PROXY A GIRL IN SPAIN

He Will Celebrate While Another Leads Bride to Altar 7000 Miles Away.

OTTAWA, Ill., March 4.—Seven thousand miles of land and sea will separate Angel Fernandez of the village of Depue, near here, from his bride, Pilar Millada, when they are made man and wife in a ceremony in Aviles, Spain, Easter Monday.

Fernandez looked forward today to celebrating the nuptials in his La Salle County home, while in Spain his wedding march is played and his bride is led to the altar by Nicholas Mallada, who in a formal legal contract, has been made Fernandez's proxy for the marriage ceremony.

In accordance with their agreement, Nicholas will take the vows for Fernandez and will then start Mrs. Fernandez on her journey to her husband.

The marriage by proxy is a Spanish governmental requirement, a promise of marriage not being considered sufficient protection to young girls crossing the ocean to meet prospective husbands.

ROCKEFELLER HURRIES TO JEKYLL ISLAND

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., March 4.—John D. Rockefeller left Pocantico Hills today for Jekyll Island, Ga. He intended to depart secretly and even the employes on his estate knew nothing of his plans until the big automobile truck was made ready to carry the baggage to New York.

Two reasons were given for Rockefeller's sudden trip. One was that he was annoyed by reporters and the notoriety he has had of late and wanted a rest; the other was that he wanted to go somewhere to play golf.

The towing of his big six-cylinder car to New York last night was a difficult feat. The postroad is covered with two feet of snow and the car had to be placed on planks. Five teams hauled it.

Albania's King Goes to His Throne.

THROAT Troubles — ARE — Dangerous

because the swollen glands and inflamed membranes often affect other tissues and impair their healthy action.

Scott's Emulsion stands alone as nature's corrector of throat troubles; its cod liver oil is speedily converted into germ-resisting tissue—the glycerine is curative and healing, while the combined emulsion upbuilds the forces to avert the weakening influence which always follow throat troubles.

SCOTT'S EMULSION is best for three important reasons—it relieves the trouble; it prevents a relapse; it is not charged with alcohol or stupefying drugs.

Shun substitutes and insist on Scott's.

MANY FAVOR PLAN OF PENNY-GENTLES FOR A SETTLEMENT

Company Officials Believe Majority of Creditors Will Accept 35 Cents on Dollar.

Officials of the Penny & Gentles Dry Goods Co., which has been in business in St. Louis for more than 40 years and against which an involuntary bankruptcy suit was filed Tuesday afternoon, expect the majority of their 480 creditors will accept their plan of settlement by which they offer to pay 35 cents on the dollar on their $100,000 indebtedness. This would permit the firm to continue in business.

James H. Gentles, secretary, stated Wednesday the company's financial embarrassment was due to the unseasonableness of both the winter and summer. The plan of settlement was announced to creditors about a week ago, and Gentles said many acceptances had already been received from creditors.

A. L. Abbott, attorney for the petitioning creditors, said the plan of settlement was regarded favorably by many of the creditors because of the firm's long business record.

The suit Monday was brought by the Paragon Dress Co., New York, with a claim of $33.25; Richmond Underwear Co., New York, with a claim of $149.30, and the Corticello Silk Co. of Newark, N. J., with a claim of $278.44.

LEO GARDNER'S FINE IS PAID BY HIS MOTHER

Mrs. Harry B. Gardner of 5000 Raymond avenue, accompanied by her daughter, Reba, called at the office of Circuit Court Clerk Echterhoff Wednesday morning and paid $644.85, representing a fine and costs assessed against her son, Leo A. Gardner, who was convicted on April 1, 1910, of manslaughter for the death of Jesse Williams, a traveling salesman, whom Gardner ran down with an auto at Fifteenth and Olive streets.

Gardner appealed his case to the State Supreme Court, which last July affirmed the findings. Gardner disappeared and efforts of deputies to find him were unsuccessful.

His bondsmen, George T. Priest and Arthur Sager, were notified they would be importuned to pay the bond if the fine and costs assessed against him were not satisfied.

TOTAL OF INCOME TAX RETURNS TO DATE IS 14,522

Mails Bring in Final Statements That Were Posted Before Monday Night.

The number of income tax returns for the Eastern District of Missouri, comprising St. Louis and 52 counties, was increased Wednesday to 14,522 by the tabulation of additional returns in mail posted before Monday midnight, the time limit fixed for filing. The figures recorded in the St. Louis Internal Revenue Office showed returns by 7375 corporations and 7147 individuals, all the additional filings coming from corporations.

Clerks are turning their attention to totals, which have been asked by the department in Washington, but which cannot be forwarded for several days. The report also will show an estimated average return per capita, based on the filings. An estimate also will be made of the gross annual income of corporations and individuals.

The St. Louis Law Library is among the corporations held exempt, being organized under that section of the law which exempts bodies formed for educational purposes, in which dividends are not paid stockholders. It also was said that several small cemetery incorporations will not have to pay.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFULLY DARKENS THE HAIR WHEN IT IS FADED OR GRAY

Sage Tea when Mixed with Sulphur Makes Your Hair Soft, Lustrous and Removes Every Bit of Dandruff.

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out-of-date. Nowadays skilled chemists do this better than ourselves. By asking at any drug store for the ready-to-use product — called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy"—you will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Some druggists make their own, which is usually too sticky, so insist upon getting "Wyeth's," which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says his customers insist on Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because, they say, it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.—ADV.

200 Player Pianos at $395

A Sale That Will Set All St. Louis Playing

THIS sale of new, guaranteed, 88-note Player Pianos which begins tomorrow morning in our Sixth Floor Piano Salon has a deep purpose. This purpose is to prove a point—and to point a moral. The point is that Vandervoort's is as thoroughly prepared to effect great economies in its Piano Salon as it is to maintain the highest musical traditions of a characteristically musical city. The moral is that Vandervoort's may always be depended upon to supply a requirement and to effect an economy—to do both without sacrifice of that splendid confidence on which its business structure is built.

The Power of Co-operation

Two hundred 88-note Player Pianos of excellent tone and quality, equipped with a player action of recognized merit, have been especially purchased and especially priced.

Vandervoort's prestige, financial strength, and unquestioned distributing capabilities have all been brought to bear in this purchase —not to secure any player piano that could be sold for $395.00, but to secure a worthy, dependable, sweet-toned player piano of exceptional merit. The price is $395.00 each. Terms of $2.00 per week have been arranged.

The instruments are guaranteed by this store and the manufacturers.

The entire proposition is a vivid example of the Power of Co-operation—of how a great store and a great manufacturer may be brought together to economically and safely serve the interests of a great community of people.

$2.00 Per Week

pays the balance after a small first payment has been made.

Your Money Back. If this Player Piano proves in any way unsatisfactory after 30 days' use, return it and receive back all money paid

A Year's Exchange Period permits, without money loss, the exchange of this Player within a year for a similar or more expensive instrument. Vandervoort's and the manufacturer both guarantee this Player Piano for a period of ten years.

The Family is protected by our custom of voluntarily cancelling the contract in the event of the purchaser's death before payment is completed and of giving the instrument to the family without further payments.

Nine Free Music Rolls are given with each Player Piano and the unlimited privilege of exchanging these rolls at the small exchange fee of five cents per roll.

A Player Bench to match the instrument, given free, and free delivery within 50 miles of St. Louis.

The Spirit of Music

The finest music in the world is the music you make yourself. The music another plays may be educational or entertaining. The music you play yourself is your own expression. It is finest because you made it. Your individuality, your emotions, your innermost feeling.

Vandervoort's has made the opportunity for you to make this music. The opportunity to play at will any selection you wish, in your own way. Your happiest thought—your deepest regret—your fondest wish—your darkest despair. If you but knew—if you could but realize the constancy, the almost humanity of this instrument we call the Player Piano, you would not hesitate a single minute in your selection of one of these 200 remarkable instruments at a price which is a revelation of purchasing opportunity.

You can have your Money Back if you are not Perfectly Satisfied

Co-operation begets confidence. If this Player Piano were not all we have said for it, we could not say "Let us send it to your home; play upon it for 30 days. If it is not satisfactory, if for any reason whatsoever you are not entirely satisfied, send it back and we will return every penny you have paid."

This is not a "trial offer." It is nothing more or less than abiding confidence in the Player Pianos as a worthy instrument, and the never-ending satisfaction it will give you.

You also have the privilege of exchanging it within one year for any other Piano or Player Piano on our floor of equal or higher price without money loss.

And then, back of all these splendid privileges, you have the great protection—a guarantee for 10 years, signed by both the manufacturer and ourselves—a guarantee of perfect frankness, plainly written and without equivocation.

Consider the exceptional value of these Player Pianos, the exceptionally low price, the very convenient terms, the remarkable privileges—consider all these points, and you will conclude that the quantity to be sold—two hundred—will be disposed of quickly.

How to Obtain Player Piano Music at Five Cents a Roll

Membership in the Vandervoort Music Roll Exchange Library gives you the use of thousands of selected 88-note rolls, including every style of music, at the cost of 5 cents a roll. The plan is this:

You may purchase any 88-note roll for $1.00 regardless of the list price (excepting "Solostyle" rolls); this roll will be marked as a part of the Exchange Library.

A roll thus purchased may be exchanged for any 88-note roll in our Music Library on payment of a 5-cent exchange fee; this roll may again be exchanged for the same fee and so on indefinitely.

Your music is thus always what you most desire and yet it is still music which is your own property and not merely a hired roll which must be returned.

PRESIDENT TO READ MESSAGE ON CANAL TOLLS TOMORROW

Advocates Repeal of Exemption Clause Because It Causes Doubt of U. S. Sincerity.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Wilson will read his sixth message to Congress tomorrow, this time advocating the repeal of the clause exempting American coastwise shipping from the payment of Panama Canal tolls.

The chief executive for the first time will ask Congress, particularly his own party, to reverse itself, but his argument is that when Congress last passed on the question international circumstances such as now surround the question did not then exist.

The President believes a general distrust of the intentions of the United States in constraining treaties for its selfish benefit has arisen and because of the doubt existing on the interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty, he will urge the repeal of the much-debated provision.

This message will be the shortest of all. It is said to be less than 500 words long.

Since the toll question was last before Congress the President has told Senators that European nations generally were taking the view that the United States had violated the Hay-Pauncefote treaty. The governments of the world, he made it clear, were beginning to believe that the United States was not sincere in the construction of treaties.

The message to Congress will open the fight on the Panama tolls questions in earnest. Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the Interoceanic Canal Committee, is expected to oppose the President's view. Lately it has been said that a majority of the committee would favor a repeal. The White House is confident that in both houses of Congress the repeal will be passed. Republicans joining Democrats in making the change.

Son of Mayor Kiel and Bride He Married in Omaha

MRS. CLARENCE V. KIEL.

CLARENCE V. KIEL.

MAYOR FORGIVES SON, 17, WHO ELOPES AND WEDS GIRL, 19

But "Cyclone Kid" Must Earn Promotion From $60 a Month City Job, iKel Says.

Mayor Kiel Wednesday afternoon extended full parental forgiveness to his 17-year-old son, Clarence V. Kiel, who married Miss Corrine P. Roulston, a stenographer, of 722 Carpenter place, after following her to Omaha, Neb.

The Mayor added that he would not in any way use his official power to advance his son in the city service unless the young man earns the promotion. The young man now gets $60 a month as an inspector in the Sewer Department. Since his infancy he has been called "Honey Boy" by his parents and it is thus that he is known to their friends.

"I believe my son has made a good match," said Mayor Kiel to the reporters at the city hall. "It is greatly to the credit of his bride that she is a working girl.

Known as Cyclone Kid.

"Clarence has been known in the family as 'the cyclone kid,' because he was born shortly after the tornado in 1896. In some ways he has lived up to that name. He has always been impulsive, but he is sensible and game. He never quits early. If he is out with a crowd having a good time he stays until the finish. He is also a good worker, and while employed by the city he has put in all the time for which he was paid and sometimes more.

Mayor Kiel said that now that his son was married he would have to be self-supporting.

"I didn't suspect a thing," he said. "I believe Miss Roulston visited our home once, but I don't remember much about her. Last Thursday she called Clarence on the long distance telephone from Omaha and had the tolls charged to me. When my wife learned about it she made the boy pay her the $2.50 charges. He drew $80, his month's pay, Saturday. When he returned from Omaha last night he told my wife he had $10 of this money left."

Kiel and Miss Roulston were married in Omaha Monday. She went there Feb. 12 and young Kiel departed from St. Louis a week later, arriving there Sunday.

Expects Better Job.

"Between calls from reporters and congratulating friends, I am having a difficult time this morning arranging my tollette," the bride, a petite blonde, said as the reporters called.

"But you must see my husband," she said. "Oh, lovie," she called up the stairs, "come right down here and tell all about how we happened to get married." Young Kiel readily showed that he had qualified as an obedient husband, by promptly responding.

He said: "Father is going to do the right thing by me. I understand he will see that I get a more remunerative job"—

"Yes," chimed in the bride, "and I am going to be a real economical housewife and see that we live within our income."

The youthful husband laughingly remarked that it seemed to be a family trait to marry young; his sister, Henrietta, having married Granville Hogan at the age of 16. His father was married when he was 21.

Andrew J. Roulston, the bride's father, foreman in the B. Nugent & Bro. stables at 3733 Bell avenue, has not extended his parental blessing, but Mrs. Roulston says the young couple may have a home with her until they are able to shift for themselves.

Arrived Home Last Night.

Young Kiel and his bride arrived in St. Louis Tuesday night. They went direct to the Roulston home. From there Kiel telephoned to the Mayor's home, 1621 Missouri avenue. His mother, who had learned of the marriage, answered the telephone.

When young Kiel told her he was "coming over" with his bride, Mrs. Kiel advised him to come alone, as she wished to talk with him before seeing the bride. Kiel went to his parents' home. He did not meet his father, who was at a theater.

CRUSADE BEGUN ON LAWYERS WITHOUT STATE LICENSES

Bar Association Requests Warrants for Arrest of Two Men.

Prosecuting Attorney Howard Sidener announced Wednesday that the St. Louis Bar Association, through John W. Calhoun, chairman of its Grievance Committee, had consulted him regarding a crusade against a large number of men who are alleged to be posing as lawyers in the Police Courts, inducing poor persons to employ them as counsel, although not licensed by the State.

Sidener said Calhoun mentioned two cases of recent date in which fees were exacted from poor defendants, although no service was rendered.

The law, Sidener said, provides a maximum fine of $100 for unlicensed attorneys practicing in a court of record, but no law is provided to prevent their operations in Police Courts.

The St. Louis Bar Association plans to bring about the passage of a bill at the next Legislature, under which unlicensed lawyers will be prohibited under penalty of heavy fine or imprisonment from appearing as counsel in any court.

Warrants will be issued against the two men mentioned by Calhoun as soon as the association gathers sufficient evidence, Sidener said

IS SICKNESS A SIN?

Excess in eating, drinking, smoking, working, even excessive anger, overloads Nature and is sinful. When she falls behind in her work, the mucous membrane of the mouth sends you notice by a coated tongue and slimy taste.

The whole mucous lining of your body is similarly coated and the bad taste and coated tongue are warnings that the Bile, Nature's disinfectant, flows feebly and that the blood is taking up the toxins or poisons.

The Mucosa, as it is called, must be cleaned—your blood must be disinfected—and a free flow of Nature's own disinfectant, Bile, is the only genuine relief.

PoDoLax Releases the Bile

Your father and his father took Podophylin or May Apple Root in their day to release the Bile. And it did it—but the doing doubled them up with pain. The griping was intense—so uncertain laxatives came into use and they failed to deliver the Bile.

PoDoLax is a Podophylin formula with the gripe and nausea taken out. Every child takes it without grimace. It costs 50c per bottle and is entitled to a place in every home. As the reasoning member of your home, it is your duty to investigate these statements. Ask for PoDoLax—the man who offers you something else questions your judgment.—ADV.

RED AND INFLAMED WATERY ERUPTION

On Child's Ear. Itched and Burned Badly. Cross and Fretful. Could Not Lie on Ear at All. After Using Cuticura Soap and Ointment No Trace of Trouble Remained.

R. F. D. No. 17, Owensville, Ind.—"When my little girl was about two years old small watery pimples came on her ear. They got worse all the time. They itched and burned so badly she would scratch them and cause them to spread until her whole ear was one large sore. Small pimples came all over her head. This trouble caused much itching and burning and she could not sleep and was very cross and fretful and she could not lie on her ear at all. The places broke out all through the hair which caused it to fall out by the handful. The spots were very red and inflamed and watery.

"I sent and got a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and decided to try these. After using the sample her ear and scalp did not cause so much pain and itching and did not look so inflamed so I bought the full-sized cake of Cuticura Soap and the Cuticura Ointment. In a short time it began to heal and the inflammation was gone. She could sleep at night and in a week's time not a spot or pimple or a trace of the trouble remained and not since then has it returned." (Signed) Mrs. Lulu Reed, March 26, 1913.

DECLARES BRITONS BLOCKED POSSIBLE ATTACK ON DEWEY

Admiral's Son Says Father Anchored His Warships Between Germans and Americans.

LONDON, March 4.—Admiral Dewey is right, according to Sir Edward Chichester, son of the late Admiral Chichester, who commanded the British fleet at Manila in 1898.

Sir Edward says he often heard his father discuss the Manila Bay episode, and these conversations confirmed Admiral Dewey's version. He added:

"If Admiral Dewey says it, it is so. My father was a great confidant of Admiral Dewey and spent much time on the American flagship. There is no doubt there was considerable friction and that the Germans put many obstacles in Admiral Dewey's way. The opinion was held generally at the time that the German Admiral would send Dewey an ultimatum against a bombardment of Manila, with the threat that if he disregarded it he would have Germany to reckon with.

"My father, Admiral Chichester, was asked by Admiral von Diedrichs what his attitude would be if Germany required the American Admiral to desist from attacking or bombarding Manila. My father told Admiral von Diedrichs it was a matter that could only be decided between Admiral Dewey and himself.

"Shortly after this the German fleet cleared for action. Thereupon, Admiral Chichester asked Admiral Dewey's permission to weigh anchor and take up a new position. The British fleet anchored between the lines of the American and German ships, the British bands played 'The Star Spangled Banner.' Admiral Chichester took up that position intentionally."

MUSIC FOR ALL-NIGHT DANCES STOPS AT 1 A. M.

Hundreds of Diners in New York Restaurants Affected by New Police Order.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Hundreds of diners in uptown restaurants who expected to follow the usual custom in those places of dancing until dawn, were disappointed at 1 o'clock this morning when informed that the music must stop when the bar closed at that hour.

The order, which has affected only the theatrical district so far, is supposed to have come from Police Commissioner McKay.

As some of the cabaret places don't start until midnight, the new order will cut into the night's receipts in many places.

"ACTOIDS" ACT ACTIVELY.

Four Tickets in Kansas City Race.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 4.—C. A. Burton, a member of the upper house of the Council, was nominated for Mayor by the Nonpartisan Government League yesterday. The league also named a full city ticket pledged to commission government. There will be four complete tickets—Democratic, Republican, Progressive and Nonpartisan.

What President Wilson Has Done in First Year

In Co-Operation With Congress

Executive Works Steadily to Redeem Pledges

Elimination of Wall Street as a Factor in Government Is Regarded by the President as the Paramount Accomplishment—Second Is the New Banking and Currency System, With Downward Revision a Good Third.

Governmental Functions Have Been Made to Conform More Nearly to the Ideals of Democracy—Despite the Rather Strenuous Twelve Months He Is "Still Going Strong" Physically and Mentally.

Notable Work Done in Wilson's First Year in Office

AMONG the achievements which President Wilson has guided to consummation are:

A tariff act comprising reduction in duties on imported necessities and calculated to lower the cost of living. No favoritism has been shown protected interests, but the people were substituted as beneficiaries. In framing the legislation the supervision of Wall street and special interests was rejected.

A banking and currency law which has removed the hand of Wall street and established a democracy of credit.

The lobby, representing all those who profited from legislation, through publicity on the part of Mr. Wilson, was removed as a powerful instrumentality in the shaping of statutes. As a result of exposures made by the President this obnoxious feature of Congressional intimidation was removed.

Two important amendments to the Constitution—the first adopted in 43 years—were made effective. One provides for the direct election of Senators by the people. The other authorizes the imposition of a tax on incomes, thus transferring the burden of maintaining the Government from the poor to the wealthy.

Proposals were made to all civilized nations for the arrangement of treaties whereby actual hostilities would be deferred during a year of reflection. Thirty governments signified their acceptance of this principle.

A RETURN to popular Government was encouraged when the President appeared in person and addressed the two branches of Congress on legislative propositions. He thus sought to terminate domination through private arrangements and secret conferences by the aid of public opinion.

The Constitution of Peace presented by the President has gone far in the direction of breaking up interlocking directorates, which formed the backbone of trusts and monopolies.

The divorcement of the Government from the New York financial concerns that proposed co-operation with foreign Governments in furnishing funds for China.

The policy of diplomatic postponement under which the unsettled relations between the United States and Mexico have been handled.

The two great transportation monopolies of the East and West were forced to dissolve. The Pennsylvania Railroad relinquished its holdings in the Baltimore & Ohio. The Southern and Union Pacific merger was canceled.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The Democratic administration was a year old today. Just 12 months ago at noon, Woodrow Wilson stood on the east front of the Capitol and took the oath of office, ushering the democracy into control of all branches of the national Government for the first time in 20 years. Members of Congress realized that, except for a short breathing spell at the Christmas holiday, they had been in virtually continuous session.

From the time the President broke a century-old precedent and stood before an assembled Congress to urge the enactment of a low tariff, close co-operation has reigned between the chief executive and the leaders of the dominant party in Congress in redeeming the platform pledge of the Baltimore convention.

A story was published this week saying that the President regarded as the paramount achievement of his administration the removal of the hand of Wall street from the United States Government for the first time in 50 years. Aside from this, the President is said to view the creation of the new banking and currency system as the most notable event of his incumbency. He believes this reform takes precedence over the downward revision of the tariff.

President's Health Good.

The conclusion of Mr. Wilson's first year as President finds him with unimpaired health. Despite alarming rumors, his heart, lungs and vital organs are in perfect condition. His only physical defect has been a weak throat. Recurring colds have settled there, causing some inflammation and fever. Beyond slight indispositions resulting from this source, the President's general health has neither been broken down nor affected by his service in the White House. Every three or four weeks the physicians give the President a good overhauling. They bang his back and thump his chest and make the most minute examination. Up to this time no failing of any kind has been discovered.

The President has taken on flesh in the last year. Leaning in the direction of spareness, he has rounded out noticeably. His appetite is good. He eats with enjoyment and does not boast about it. Oscar W. Underwood once announced that he had the ostrich hipped. He could eat anything from predigested cereals to nails. The next day he was stricken with acute indigestion. The President profited by the warning.

To say that Mr. Wilson has performed his arduous duties "without turning a hair" would be untrue. Many of them have become more deeply tinged with gray. The suspicion of baldness also has made slight progress toward certainty.

His eyesight has not become less effective despite the increased strain.

His hearing is no less acute than heretofore. The pleas of those seeking office and the beseechings of special privilege have not proven detrimental.

His step is just as spry and vigorous as when he was the head of Princeton College and Governor of New Jersey. He likes to walk, and he goes springing along like a man younger in years.

There is less opportunity for exercise now than when the President lived in Trenton. He never misses a chance, but the rush of official duties places greater limitations upon him.

The same is true as regards perusal of the daily newspapers. He does not read them to the same extent as before entering the White House. Secretary Tumulty takes this responsibility from his shoulders. He whacks out all articles essential for the President's consideration and information and lays them on his desk. As a reader Tumulty takes first rank in discrimination. He begins with the New York World, following with a sort of volplane spiral turn until he reaches the Weekly Reflector, published at Solitude, N. J.

The President makes it a point to keep up with books and current literature. He reads all the best sellers and the latest magazines, and is thoroughly informed on matters of up-to-date discussion in print. His favorite diversion is reading detective stories.

No time is found by the President for writing on special topics. The multiplicity of routine public affairs prevents any activity in that direction.

Absent Only Three Weeks.

A new low record for presidential living on wheels has been set by Mr. Wilson. This assertion only applies to that period since varnished cars and plush seats became fashionable. As compared with his predecessors, who swung around the circle and then made the trip diagonally and otherwise, he has done no traveling. His aggregate absence from the White House during the year has been only three weeks.

In all President Wilson covered exactly 9119 miles on railroad trains since his inauguration. This was divided into five journeys. He went to New Jersey twice and voted. He made two trips to his summer home in New Hampshire. His vacation this winter was spent at Pass Christian, Miss.

President Wilson is below the average with a handshaking record. He was absent on New Year's day, when it is customary for 10,000 persons to file through the White House and pay their respects. The number of those invited to special functions has been lessened. A total of 85,000 handclasps is the maximum allowance for Mr. Wilson. More than 8000 of these are credited to the four big receptions. The general average is about 230 a day. There is no rule of mathematics applicable to handshaking. Some days this exercise is limited to a few friends, on others the number exceeds 2000. When one of these rushes bobs along the President's forearm feels like a compound curve on a narrow-gauge railroad holding down a mountainous right of way. It is no joking matter to shake hands by the hour.

Has Received 160,000 Letters.

Every American citizen has the privilege of writing to the President. The right of petition is guaranteed by the Constitution. A reasonable percentage of fellow countrymen do not fail to take their pens in hand and contribute 2, 4 or 6 cents toward keeping the postal service self-sustaining. In the last year Mr. Wilson received something like 160,000 letters. The daily average is more than 500, with no allowance for Sunday. These communications are sorted and sifted by Secretary Tumulty. None but those of importance ever reach the President's personal desk.

In the matter of messages to Congress, Mr. Wilson has been unusually temperate. He has appeared before joint sessions of the Senate and House to deliver only five of these addresses.

Less time is found by the President for recreation than when Governor.

The President in the first year of his incumbency has attended religious services with the same regularity as when a private citizen or chief executive of the state.

An improvement in playing golf has been noted in the last 12 months. Some of the President's envious competitors declare the betterment is slight and would not be noticed in a crack tournament.

Manner of Dress Unchanged.

His elevation to the presidency has not made Mr. Wilson more fashionable or fastidious. The quality of his clothes and his manner of dress have undergone no perceptible change. Neatness, modesty and good taste are self-evident. The President is today wearing the same suit in which he delivered his speech of acceptance at Sea Girt, following the Baltimore convention. It is a steel gray, of all-the-year-round weight, intended solely for business purposes. The coat is sack pattern and unlike the ever-in-the-way feather.

Those who have been closely associated with the President during the year declare that he is not more susceptible to worriment now than before assuming public duties. He does not permit the usual run of affairs to disturb or fret him.

The President gets more sleep now than in previous years. He retires early when opportunity is afforded. He arises at 7:15 in the morning.

The disposition and temperament of the President have not been changed by the additional burdens imposed on him. He is just as affable and approachable now as when a citizen or Governor.

Luncheon Chief Event of Day.

Assurances are given by all those in a position to have definite knowledge that the President finds his duties as Chief Magistrate pleasant and likable.

The luncheon hour is regarded by Mr. Wilson as the chief event of the day. He then is joined by his wife and family, Secretary Tumulty and a few invited friends. This proves a refreshing and enjoyable occasion. Relaxation follows the strain of official work. Repartee and story-telling and laughter prevail. The rest thus obtained gives the President a fresh start for the afternoon's routine.

Whipping all the ends together and summing up in a composite statement, Woodrow Wilson has not perceptibly changed in any respect from the man who took the oath as President one year ago.

Some startling innovations have been wrought by Mr. Wilson within the year. The first fell with appalling force on the night of his induction into office. There was no inaugural ball. The sorrows of those who desired to attend this renowned function have not entirely abated. The reason prompting the elimination was the expense. The use of the Pension Bureau as a ball room entailed a Governmental loss of approximately $100,000. This resulted from salaries paid unemployed clerks for about three weeks and other costs of preparation. Mr. Wilson believed it wise that this sum should be saved for the taxpayers.

By going before Congress and delivering his own messages, Mr. Wilson brought mortification and distress to Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft. Both have bumped their heads in chagrin because they did not think of this plan and put it in operation.

Utilized President's Room.

For the first time in many decades Mr. Wilson utilized the room reserved for the President in the Senate wing of the Capitol. Previously it had been nothing but a show place for tourists. He went there and saved Senators the inconvenience of coming to the White House for conferences.

Abandonment of the annual come-one-come-all reception Jan. 1 created much havoc and consternation. This had been an occasion when the resident and the visitor could meet on common ground and shake the President's hand. On previous New Year's days a mixed throng of nearly 10,000 would pass through the White House and extend the season's compliments. The President was absent on a vacation and could not return in time for this function. It is not his intention to make the elimination permanent.

The escort of local police on motor cycles was discontinued. It was customary for a couple of these officers to trail along behind the presidential car as a guard. The duty of protection now is performed by secret service men, who follow in a car of their own.

The President dispensed with a uniformed aid. The officer detailed for the purpose was sent back to his regular station in the army.

The historic mint bed in the rear of the Executive Mansion was uprooted. Many good old gentlemen from the Southland cried themselves sick because of this destruction, but it did not restore the mint.

No new members have been added to the Ananias Club since Mr. Wilson became President. Up to this time he has called no man a liar.

British Writer Says President Is Making U. S. Government Flexible.

LONDON, March 4.—Sydney Brooks, a writer on American affairs, writes for the London Daily Chronicle a lengthy article on President Wilson's first year of office. It concludes:

"The result of his methods is that the American form of government is acquiring the smoothness and flexibility it hitherto has lacked. Another result is that both the principal measures of the past session, revising the tariff and reforming the banking and currency system, bore in not a few of their most important clauses the stamp of his personal views and that he was the main driving force behind both in their progress through the Legislature.

"A third not less significant result is that he has impressed himself upon the public mind in America as a President who not only presides but leads and inspires. The country relishes his unostentatious, yet extremely dramatic originality and trusts him implicitly."

HEALTH OFFICER ASKED TO GIVE MONEY A BATH

Quarantined Family Can't Spend It Because Tradesmen Fear It's Infected.

Mrs. Sophia Demuth, Health Officer, will take her can of formaldehyde on Wednesday to the home of D. H. Zumwalt at Sixth and Easton streets, Alton, and disinfect a quantity of money said to be infected with smallpox germs.

When the members of the family were quarantined they had plenty of money, but grocers and others refuse to accept it. Mrs. Demuth says it will be cheaper to disinfect the money than to keep the family in quarantine.

TAKE SALTS IF YOUR BACK HURTS SAYS DRUGS ONLY EXCITE THE KIDNEYS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite and irritate the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder trouble.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—ADV.

"All is Well That Ends Well"

Along with dyspepsia comes nervousness, sleeplessness and general ill health. Why? Because a disordered stomach does not permit the food to be assimilated and carried to the blood. On the other hand, the blood is charged with poisons which come from this disordered digestion. In turn, the nerves are not fed on good, red blood and we see those symptoms of nervous breakdown. It is not head work that does it, but poor stomach work. With poor thin blood the body is not protected against the attack of germs of grip—bronchitis—consumption. Fortify the body now with

Will Teach Your Child How to Be Healthy

Regularity of Bowels from Infancy Insures Good Health in Later Years

BERTHA LEE WOODARD

We cannot all start life with the advantages of money, but every child born is entitled to the heritage of good health. Through unfortunate ignorance or carelessness in the feeding of a baby its tiny stomach may become deranged. The disorder spreads to the bowels and before the mother realizes it the two chief organs on which the infant's health depend are causing it great suffering. If the condition is allowed to continue grave ailments often result.

There is, however, no occasion for alarm, and the sensible thing to do—but it should be done instantly—is to give the baby a small dose of a mild laxative-tonic. In the opinion of a great many people, among them such well-known persons as the parents of Bertha Lee Woodard, 3 years old, of Moultrie, Ga., the proper remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mrs. I. N. Woodard says that little Bertha was troubled with constipation for over a year, and that after trying several different kinds of remedies she found her relief in Syrup Pepsin. It is a mild, pleasant-tasting laxative, which every person likes, does not gripe nor cramp, and contains that most excellent of all digestants, pepsin.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is especially intended for infants, children, women, old people, and all others to whom harsh cathartics, salt waters, pills, etc., are distressing. In fact, in the common disorders of life, such as constipation, liver trouble, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, and the various other disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels nothing is more suitable than this mild laxative-tonic, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Three generations of people are using it today, and thousands of families keep it constantly in the house, for every member of the family can use it. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, the latter being the size bought by families who already know its value. Results are always guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it postpaid by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 419 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. A postal card with your name and address on it will do.

Protection Against Bronchitis and Pneumonia

A Recipe.

Into a pitcher put a tablespoonful of butter, one-quarter cup of light brown sugar, an ounce of fresh, whole allspice and a pint of Duffy's pure malt whiskey. Let it stand for half an hour; then add one-half pint boiling water. Let it stand again for a short while, and before serving stir well and add the juice of one orange and one lemon. This is to be served in a wine glass.

It is very wholesome, appetizing and strengthening, especially for fever and chills in stormy and blustering weather. Prompt action on such occasions will ward off many a serious and oft-times fatal attack of bronchitis and pneumonia, as well as irritating coughs and colds.

Relief From Constipation

It's Me for Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O. All druggists.

President Wilson Makes Presentation to Canal Builder for Geographic Society.

WASHINGTON, March 4. — Col. George W. Goethals, builder of the Panama Canal, last night received from the National Geographic Society a special gold medal, in recognition of his achievement. The presentation was made by President Wilson at the annual banquet of the society, at which Col. Goethals was an honored guest.

Secretary of State Bryan was toastmaster, and gathered about the guest's table with the distinguished scientists of the society were President Wilson and his Cabinet, Justices of the Supreme Court, members of the Diplomatic Corps, high officers of the army and navy, leaders in both houses of Congress and other notable figures in the life of the national capital.

Presenting the medal, President Wilson said:

"I am here to do what I suppose is an unusual thing for a society of this sort. It generally confers its honors upon those who have disclosed geography rather than upon those who have altered it. It is a sort of advertiser and custodian of the globe, but it is now about to honor a gentleman who has had the audacity to change the globe. The engineering profession is one of the few creative professions. Those of us who have attempted to be literary men conceive that we have created conceptions of the mind, but we never can produce them in court. They are never visibly upon exhibition. But the magic of the engineer is that he can change the face of nature and show the work of his hands, and that it is in some deep sense creative in character. The life of mankind on the globe is altered, for example, by the cutting and the use of the Panama Canal.

"It fills the imagination to think of what this work will accomplish. It will create new neighbors. It will generate new friendships. It will make a new atmosphere of rivalry and of generous association. The whole tendency of the routes of trade will be changed, and the routes of trade are the routes of enlightenment. Only when neighbors touch one another do they cease to be provincial and look upon the great tasks of humanity instead of confining themselves to the relatively selfish task of their own domestic development, and it is only as we export and import ideas that civilization becomes thoroughly established.

"We have, therefore, to honor tonight the greatest living representative of this extraordinary profession. It seems to me to be natural, if I may say so with apologies to some of our friends present, that the greatest engineer should come from the United States. The United States has made the world very uncomfortable, but it has at least done so by the exercise of extraordinary dynamic qualities. It is not one of the statistical nations of the world. It is one of the nations which has disturbed equilibrium, which has cut new paths for the thought and action of mankind. And now there is to be elevated, and kept always on high, this new name upon which men are to enter the roads of new experience, a name which will not be blotted out until and unless the whole civilization of the world should change, the name of Col. Goethals. The Government of the United States lent him to the world and he has done this thing for the world. For it is our proud boast that we have cut this highway for all the seagoing ships of the world.

"I take for granted that we do not tonight forget that distinguished group of men who have been associated with Col. Goethals—that gallant and devoted soldier who gave his very life to see that the great work was done at Culebra cut; that man who made so much of this work possible, Surgeon-General Gorgas, by knowing how to hold disease off at arm's length while these men were given leave to work; Col. Seibert, who built the walls of Gatun dam and created Gatun Lake, making it look to the eyes of the beholder as if nature had done the work over which he himself presided; and Col. Hodges, who made the locks and the machinery by which those great things are administered.

"But we are merely acknowledging the presiding character and genius which drew all the elements of this work together, which made it a work done by co-laborers, not by rivals—work done as if it were the conception of a single mind, and work done in the spirit of service and self-effacement which belongs to a great service of a great Government. There is nothing selfish in the eminence of Col. Goethals. It is representative of a great profession; it is representative of a great Government; it is representative of a great spirit.

"I am glad that this thing was not done by private enterprise and that there is no thought of private profit anywhere in it, but that a Government put itself at the service of the world and used a great man to do a great thing. That is the ideal of the modern world, that the services to mankind shall be commonly shared.

"So I esteem it a real privilege, acting on behalf of this society, to present to you, Col. Goethals, this very beautiful medal. It is made of mere gold, and gold is of no consequence in this connection, but it speaks, in the most precious metal we know, the gratitude and admiration of the world."

Col. Goethals received the medal and stood silent, evidently overcome by emotion. Finally, words came, at first slow and punctuated by pauses. Gradually he regained his composure and feelingly expressed his appreciation.

DON'T USE DRUGS FOR CONSTIPATION

We all know that constipation brings on countless other complaints if not taken in hand—appendicitis is among them—also that any drug will lose its power after being taken for a time—but we should also know that every drug forces Nature instead of assisting her, and will, if continued, make us slaves to them.

There is now a method of Internal Bathing which will keep the intestines as clean and pure and free from waste as exacting Nature can demand—which, taken occasionally, will prevent constipation, biliousness with its depression, and the countless more serious diseases which are caused by the blood taking up the poisons from the intestines and carrying them through the system.

That method is the "J. B. L. Cascade," which is being enthusiastically used by many thousands, is prescribed by the most enlightened physicians everywhere and is now being shown and explained by Judge & Dolph Drug Co., 515 Olive, Seventh and Locust, Broadway and Washington, St. Louis, Mo.

Everyone should at least investigate this nature-cure without delay.

MRS. A. T. FRENCH GETS A DIVORCE IN FIVE MINUTES

Justice Stops Reading of Depositions to Grant Decree to Newport Society Woman.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 4.—Five minutes after William R. Harvey began the reading of depositions in the divorce action of Pauline Leroy French, Newport society woman, against Amos Tuck French, Justice Barrows of the Superior Court said: "I hereby grant the petition on the ground of neglect to provide."

Neither Mr. nor Mrs. French was present and there was no contest. The entire testimony was presented by means of sworn affidavits.

Mrs. French created something of a sensation when she deposed that she has been compelled to borrow money from the servants and is still in debt to them for small sums borrowed from time to time.

ANNOUNCEMENT was made of the engagement of Miss Marjorie Morton and Arthur Anderson at a tea given Wednesday afternoon by Miss Dorothy Werner, at her home, 5505 Cates avenue, in honor of her guest, Miss Eleanor Davis of Kansas City. Miss Morton is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Morton of Glendale. She is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Matthews and a niece of Mrs. Saunders Norvell and Mrs. Percy Werner. Miss Morton made her debut as one of the maids of honor at the Veiled Prophet's ball when her cousin, Miss Lucy Norvell, was Queen. Mr. Anderson is a son of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Anderson of 25 Marshall place, Webster Groves. The marriage will be in the autumn.

The United Hebrew Ladies' Aid will give an auction bridge, euchre and lotto party Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the vestry rooms of the Temple, King's highway and Von Versen avenue, for the benefit of the bazar of the Y. M. H. A.

Mr. and Mrs. Mortimer Burroughs are receiving congratulations upon the arrival of a son. Mr. and Mrs. Burroughs came here from Detroit several months ago to live and are at 4864 Berlin avenue. Mrs. Burroughs was before her marriage Miss Laura Lee, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. James W. Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Haldeman of 5345 Berlin avenue announce the marriage of their daughter, Louise Marguerite, to William Francis Horsting of 5250 Westminster place, Feb. 26. The bride is a Hosmer Hall graduate, class of 1911, and was a member of the junior class at Washington University and Kappa Alpha Sorority. Mr. Horsting and his bride are spending their honeymoon in the North and on their return they will be with the bride's parents until their new home is in readiness.

Mrs. Maurice Edwards Breed of 944 Hamilton avenue has issued cards for a tea for Friday afternoon from 3 to 5:30, in honor of her sister, Mrs Homer Barr Rich of Oshkosh, Wis., who was known to St. Louisans as Miss Edith Coxhead. Mrs. Breed will be assisted in receiving by her sister-in-law, Mrs. William G. Coxhead of Chihuahua, Mexico.

The dance studio, 4517 Olive, rented for dances and teas. Phone Forest 5270.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Lederer of 5275 Lindell boulevard will be at home Sunday evening in honor of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Lucille Lederer, and Roy Erb Tilles. The engagement was announced a short time ago, and was one of the interesting ones in the Columbian Club set, in which both bride and bridegroom-elect are prominent. The marriage will be in the early summer.

Mr and Mrs. Sidney B. Wasserman have returned from their wedding trip and are at home at 4442A McPherson avenue.

Hundreds at Musicale Matinee.
The Maude Lilian Berri musicale and matinee luncheon at the Famous & Barr Co. store, Tuesday, was attended by several hundred persons. The reception of Miss Berri's singing proved she is a St. Louis favorite. Miss Olga Steck and Earl Benham of the Peck o' Pickles' company sung and danced. Other contributors to the program were Miss Mary Dawson, a St. Louisan, soprano; Miss Alice Mills, formerly of the Delmar Opera Co.; Abe Morris of St. Louis, violin virtuoso.

GIRL FOILS ROBBERY ON A STREET CAR

Warns Man of Pickpocket and Suspect Is Captured After a Chase.

Miss Viola Stout of 2341 Magnolia avenue, prevented a robbery on a street car Tuesday evening and assisted in capturing a pickpocket suspect. She was alighting from a south-bound Jefferson car at Shenandoah avenue at 6 p. m., just as Alois Spohr of 2541A Victor street, was boarding it.

Miss Stout saw three men jostling Spohr and noticed that one was trying to get his hand into Spohr's pocket. She yelled to Spohr, and the three suspects ran. Miss Stout pointed out one man running east on Shenandoah avenue, and he was captured by Spohr and John Franz of 5401 Tennessee avenue and turned over to a patrolman.

At the Wyoming Street Station the prisoner said he was James Blake, a shoeworker.

UGH! NOT CALOMEL, OIL OR SALTS, DELICIOUS "SYRUP OF FIGS" IS BEST.

A harmless cure for sick headache, biliousness, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, coated tongue, sallowness—take "California Syrup of Figs." For the cause of all such misery comes from a torpid liver and sluggish bowels.

A tablespoonful tonight means all constipation poison, waste matter, fermenting food and sour bile gently moved out of your system by morning without griping. Please don't think of "California Syrup of Figs" as a physic. Don't think you are drugging yourself or your children, because this delicious fruit laxative cannot cause injury. Even the most delicate child can take it as safely as a robust man. It is the most harmless, effective stomach, liver and bowel cleanser, regulator and tonic ever devised.

Your only difficulty may be in getting the genuine, so ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." This city has many counterfeit "fig syrups," so watch out.—ADV.

Nemo KOPSERVICE
ENTIRELY NEW IN CONSTRUCTION
IN EXCLUSIVE FEATURES
IN HYGIENIC PROPERTIES
IN STYLE EFFECTS
AT $5.00

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO ALL WOMEN

THE new Nemo KOPSERVICE Corsets completely solve the vexed corset-problems of the day by harmonizing the "nature figure," as a distinct fashion-type, with the invaluable hygienic features for which Nemo Corsets are famous throughout the world.

KOPSERVICE Corsets perform the seemingly impossible by enabling all women, from very slender to extra-stout, to attain a rational "nature figure" without sacrificing one iota of comfort or hygienic safety.

The influence of this radically new system of corset-construction will be felt immediately in all the world's fashion-centres, where already the Nemo is a predominating factor.

Details of Construction
A. Right side of the corset skirt as worn.
F. Left side of corset skirt, turned back to show supporting feature.
D. The curved ends of front steels forming part of supporting feature.
B. Seam whereby corset-skirt is attached to body of corset.
C. Groin section showing how the effect of the natural figure is retained.
E. The famous Nemo "bridge" construction which avoids all pressure over the gastric region, and prevents even a "topless" corset from "digging in" at the waist-line.

KOPSERVICE construction produces practically two corsets in one.

The corset-body, in the front, being free from the influence of the corset-skirt and hose supporters, is self-adjusting and remains firmly in proper place, no matter what the attitude or pose.

The corset-skirt, hanging free from the front of the corset, with the attached hose supporters, strongly reduces the upper limbs, but is made easy and comfortable by the semi-elastic Lasticurve-Back, which provides for ample "spread" when seated.

In the models for stout figures, (Nos. 551 and 552), the abdominal support is given by the curved front steels and the converging bands, which give perfect hygienic support from underneath.

For FULL Figures

These two models combine the fashion-type known as the "nature figure" with the highest development of the perfect support for which the Nemo Hygienic Corset System is famous:

No. 551 For stout women. Combines the comfort of the old short corset with the newest fashion-effects. Low bust; front steels with incurved ends, a new and clever device that gives perfect abdominal support. Very long skirt, with semi-elastic Lasticurve-Back. Of fine white coutil, sizes 22 to 36..... $5.00

No. 552 KOPSERVICE CORSET, for full figures. Similar in general construction to No. 551, but with lower bust and front steels somewhat shorter below waist; wide front-gores of semi-elastic Lastikops Cloth give additional freedom for the natural figure. Of fine white coutil, sizes 22 to 36..... $5.00

These are beyond question the best corsets ever made for stout women, and represent the greatest corset-values ever offered at $5.00.

For SLENDER and MEDIUM

The construction of these corsets provides for the extreme poses of the "debutante slouch;" they give perfect hygienic support, and guard the figure against permanent loss of symmetry.

No. 561 For slender and medium figures. Practically "topless." Entire corset above waist-line is of semi-elastic Lastikops fabrics, lightly boned. Very long skirt with Lasticurve-Back. Absence of boning and lightness of material, reveal the natural lines. Suede batiste, sizes 20 to 30..... $5.00

No. 562 For medium figures. Very low bust; extra-long skirt, with Lasticurve-Back. Inserts of semi-elastic Lastikops Cloth, extending three inches above the waist-line and five inches below, give wonderful ease and the "natural" lines. This effect is ENTIRELY NEW. As in No. 561, the new short front gives all needed figure support. Suede batiste, in sizes 20 to 30..... $5.00

These corsets represent style and hygienic values that cannot be obtained in any other corset at any price. Sold in all leading stores.

A Secret for Women

Cut this out.

Madame Moneaux, deceased beauty specialist, of New York, long possessed the greatest of all secrets pertaining to feminine charm. And what is this great secret, so much desired by women—the secret that has made a vast fortune for the madam's heirs, and that brought her all the famous actresses and society leaders for patrons?

It is a simple but sure method of developing the bust, arms and neck of women who through defect of nutrition and circulation, are humiliated by undeveloped arms, neck and bust. Ugly, deformed women are developed into charming personages, with well rounded arms and neck and full, normal bust of exquisite curve and proportion.

A rare compound of oils known to pharmacists as medicated venosol, put up in sealed tubes, is daily massaged on the parts needing development, and owing to improved circulation and nourishment rapid increase follows.

Apply morning and night regularly for several weeks and the most beautiful development will begin to reward the efforts. It is believed by experts to be the most necessary and effective prescription ever conceived.—ADVERTISEMENT.

CARRANZA WILL DEAL WITH BRITAIN ONLY AS TO BENTON

Constitutionalist Chief States His Position to Post-Dispatch Correspondent.

CALLS ENGLAND BULLY

Says That Nation Uses U. S. as Cat's Paw, but Must Take Up Subject With Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NOGALES, Mexico, March 4.—"I will accept representations only from the British Government, so far as Benton is concerned," declared Gen. Vensutiano Carranza, leader of the Mexican Constitutionalists, in an interview he granted today to a Post-Dispatch special correspondent.

"Great Britain," he continued, "now has an accredited representative to the Huerta Government. He is a man who accepts invitations from Huerta, takes off his hat to him and shakes hands with him.

"When Madero was murdered, all the foreign powers flocked to the spot like a lot of vultures flock to the dead, and recognized the murderer because their subjects numbered little groups of men having petty business in the republic.

"The nations," Carranza declared waving Fiabella aside, "thought they could strengthen their positions by standing in with the Huerta government and they held to this idea until the advance of the Constitutionalists showed them their error.

"The killing of Benton was due to a malicious attack on Villa by an enemy of the revolutionists, and England, the bully of the world, found herself in a position of being unable to deal with us unless she humiliated herself by sending her representatives to the Constitutionalists; so she attempted to use the United States as a cat's paw. More shame to the United States, that she allowed herself to join with these infamous powers.

"To whom shall we address ourselves in the Benton case?" asked Carranza. "We certainly cannot address ourselves until the British delegates come. We shall remain silent as to the results of the investigation.

"It is true that Villa, at my order, recalled the invitation to investigate the body of Benton, and withdrew the permission he had given. He did this because I informed him that he was not to treat with any nation concerning international affairs. Villa and I are in perfect accord. He obeys my orders, as he should obey them, and without question. Why, anything else would be unbelievable.

"As to my attitude toward nations that do not recognize the Constitutionalists, although they do not recognize me as a chief of the Government, they do recognise me as first chief of the Constitutionalists army which dominates the greater part of the Mexican republic, and as such I will attend to all representations made by those nations relating to their subjects if made in proper form—that which they will be compelled to do later, since the triumph of the cause which I represent is sure and soon.

"It is not true that I said that I would execute Huerta and other opponents of our cause; but I can authoritatively state that if these individuals fall into my power they will be dealt with to the full extent of the law."

Benton Grave Expedition Is Expected to Be Abandoned.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Gen. Carranza's announcement that he had appointed a Special Commission to investigate the recent execution by Gen. Villa of William S. Benton, a British subject, coupled with the declaration from Great Britain that she would not look to the United States for action as a result of the incident, was generally accepted today as meaning the abandonment of the expedition of American and British representatives who were to have gone to Chihuahua to examine Benton's body.

There is every reason to believe that Great Britain has closed the Benton case for the present, though she has reserved the right to exact reparation in the future. England's withdrawal at this time and Carranza's determination to investigate the Benton killing of his own accord will put the United States, it is believed, in the position of a patient observer of developments with no present necessity for further inquiry into the Benton episode.

Mexicans Tell U. S. Senators of Projected Felix Diaz Revolution.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Pedro del Vilar and Cecilio Ocon, who said they represented Felix Diaz, talked in private with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today about the Mexican situation. It was learned afterward that they told the Senators Felix Diaz was thinking of some military activity in Mexico and he wanted to know what would be the position of the United States toward recognizing Diaz if he should start a revolution. The Senators told them the United States would give no assurances whatever to any prospective revolution.

Chronicle Puts Responsibility for Death "in a Sense" Upon American Policy.

LONDON, March 4.—The Mexican situation and Sir Edward Grey's pronouncement of the views of the British Government in regard to the investigation into the death of William S. Benton are the subject of much comment in today's newspapers.

The Daily Chronicle in its editorial comment says:

"In a sense the United States has more responsibility in Benton's murder than Sir Edward Grey stated. Villa, his murderer, obtained practically all his arms and supplies from across the American border, because the United States deliberately raised in his favor an embargo otherwise imposed by international law.

"If this policy of the United States did not exist, Benton probably would still be alive, and if he were not England would be in a position to get redress from the regular Mexican Government. Thus, it is really the United States which stands between England and redress."

Situation Irritating.

The Daily News concludes its editorial by commending Sir Edward Grey's caution. "It is irritating," the News says, "that a scoundrel should be able to murder a British subject with impunity, but our anger should not drive us into dangerous courses. Sir Edward Grey's policy may seem for the moment barren, but no other policy is practicable."

The Daily Express says: "We regret the rather humiliating confession of impotence and we think Sir Edward Grey's language not too aptly chosen, but the sense of his sentiment is in accord with public sentiment and is, on the whole, satisfactory. The next move clearly lies with President Wilson. He has one of those opportunities that do not recur."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"The temperate and restrained language in which Sir Edward Grey referred to the Mexican murder will have the approval of all Englishmen. Its moderation, however, will not disguise the depth of their feeling.

"Every reason of moral and international right requires of the United States that the punishment of Benton's murderers shall be undertaken without delay. At the present moment civilization stands flouted and Great Britain outraged. The application of the Monroe Doctrine is paralyzed and mocked."

Wilson's Policy Attacked.

The Globe says: "Sir Edward Grey said much to emphasize the gravity of recent events and very little to relieve the disquietude which those events have inevitably provoked. The public opinion of this country, however sympathetic to the United States, will not make considerations for the embarrassments of President Wilson an adequate excuse for acquiescing in such deeds as those of which Pancho Villa, with the approval of Venustiano Carranza, has been guilty. If President Wilson cannot be held responsible for the behavior of the Mexican insurrectionists, his policy is directly responsible for the state of things which led to intolerable excesses.

"The United States is bound to exert that predominant and exclusive influence which it claims for putting an end to things which have become a danger not merely to the United States itself, but to the civilized world."

The Westminster Gazette and Evening Standard agree with Sir Edward Grey that the only possible policy is to await and secure reparation when circumstances permit it.

Moran to Tour America Before Fighting Johnson

LONDON, March 4.—Frank Moran, who will fight Jack Johnson for the championship of the world in Paris on the night of June 27, will sail for America on the Olympic tomorrow.

Moran will make a theatrical tour of eight weeks in America at a weekly salary of $900. At the expiration of the tour Moran will sail immediately for France, where he will start training in earnest for his bout with Johnson.

For a month past Moran has been boxing and working in the gymnasium in preparation for his championship mill.

PARIS, March 4.—Jack Johnson and Frank Moran will not fight for the world's heavyweight title in the open air, as at first planned. Instead, they will battle in Paris on the last Saturday night in June, the night preceding the race for the Grand Prix de Paris, the most valuable turf event in the world.

There is liable to be a clash between Johnson and the Federation de Boxe, relative to the authority of the latter organization. The federation recently refused to recognize Johnson as the champion, and now Johnson refuses to abide by the decision of the federation that the Moran-Johnson bout must be fought under the rules and regulations of the federation.

Johnson says that as long as the federation refused to recognize him, he will ignore the federation. Johnson can't understand why the federation is paying any attention to the bout, after going on record by declaring that he is not the champion.

Johnson and Moran are attracting big houses in their tours through Scotland and Wales. Moran recently taxed the capacity of the biggest hall in London.

Jeanette to Box Carpentier.

Joe Jeanette will box Georges Carpentier on March 21. The French champion is scheduled to meet Kid McCoy earlier in the month, but as everybody concedes a victory to Carpentier, the match with Jeanette was clinched.

In a recent boxing exhibition McCoy showed all of his old-time boxing science, but McCoy's most ardent admirers are afraid that he will not be able to stand up before his youthful adversary for more than six rounds. Jeanette, a veteran of many hard battles, will bring out the best in Carpentier. Jeanette is by long odds the best fighter Carpentier has yet fought.

Young Ahearn, a Brooklyn lad, recently won a 15-round decision over Papin, the lightweight champion of France. It was Papin's first defeat. Ahearn is matched with Adrien Horan, the middleweight champion of France for a bout on March 28.

JACK DILLON BATTLES JIM FLYNN TO A DRAW

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 4.—Jack Dillon, the Indianapolis middleweight, fought 10 rounds here last night with Heavyweight Jim Flynn of Pueblo, the bout being declared a draw. Flynn bored in, after his usual fashion, and was the aggressor throughout. Dillon was too clever, however, and he avoided most of Flynn's rough stuff.

In the second round Dillon twice knocked Flynn down, but the fireman finished strong in the later rounds.

MORRIS-LANGFORD BOUT WILL NOT TAKE PLACE

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 4.—The Milwaukee State Boxing Commission yesterday announced that the scheduled 10-round boxing bout between Carl Morris and Sam Langford would not be permitted to take place. No contests between blacks and whites are to be permitted in the Badger State.

Jabez White Is Forced to Limit to Defeat Hennessy

Local Bantam Is Game

Clever New York Fighter Outpoints St. Louis Boxer, but Latter Displays Surprising Aggressiveness in Future City Athletic Club Feature.

By Harry S. Sharpe,

Referee for the Future City A. C. and the Post-Dispatch's Boxing Authority.

JABEZ WHITE of Albany, N. Y., won from Francis Hennessy at the Future City Athletic Club last night, but the St. Louis boy gave him a much harder and better battle than had been anticipated by many who keep close watch on local ring affairs.

Hennessy took a beating, but he took it gamely and deserved the many compliments paid him when the bout came to an end. From the very beginning he gave evidence of his determination to efface a bad impression left by a previous bout here. He landed the first punch and outboxed White in the first round until near the close, when he received a hard right punch to the jaw that sent him to the mat badly dazed.

His seconds called on him to remain down for the count, but he was too far gone to realize what he was doing and staggered to his feet at the count of two. White rushed in to finish him, but Hennessy covered and managed to stay on his feet until the round was ended by the bell.

At the close of the first round it is doubtful that there were many among the spectators who believed Hennessy would last more than three or four rounds at the most. White is a clever boxer, a hard hitter for his weight and had just demonstrated this by dropping Hennessy to the mat.

Hennessy "Comes Back."

When the second round opened, Hennessy had not yet recovered from the hard blow he had received, but he resorted to open boxing and glided about the ring with a lightness of foot that carried him out of danger on many occasions when White, bent on a knockout, closed in with right hand poised for a decisive punch. He let it go several times, but Hennessy was on guard and made him miss. By the time this round ended, Hennessy had recovered much of his strength, and was doing some good boxing, getting in many good blows to the head and body, but he was being outpointed and his punches did not have the strength behind them that distinguished White's.

Rounds three, four and five were bitterly fought, with neither boxer holding anything in reserve. Hennessy was being gradually outpointed, but was fighting back hard, and several times gained a momentary advantage. White was cool, aggressive and boxing with the skill of a master, holding the situation well enough in hand; but there was no time when he could have afforded to be careless, and he took no chances.

Hennessy was desperate, determined and trying hard to fight his way to victory. He seemed willing enough to mix it, and often the little boxers stood toe to toe and exchanged hard punches until thrown off balance

Both Men Obey Rules.

Another thing; both boxed fairly, were quick to respond when I called on them. They did little hitting while holding, and then only in the excitement of a moment. They were quick to break from the clinches and often did so without my having to touch them.

Harry Sharpe's Decisions.

NATE KALB of Chicago vs. Jimmy Stillman of St. Louis, eight rounds, weight 120 pounds at 3 o'clock p. m.—KALB THE WINNER on points.

BENNY BAKER of the Columbian Athletic Club, St. Louis, vs. Bob Grether, six rounds, weight 122 pounds—BAKER THE WINNER; bout stopped in second round because Grether was outclassed.

White Has Hennessy Bleeding From Lefts and Rights in Fifth Round

IN the fifth round there had been some hard slugging and at the close Hennessy was bleeding freely from mouth and nose. White had landed there with many left jabs and hard right crosses. His punches were better timed and he planted them with unerring aim as Hennessy came forward.

In this round some straight counters were landed simultaneously and the boxers reeled backward as a result, but White's blows were the hardest and he was quicker to recover.

Boxers Tire, Due to High Speed.

The pace for the first five rounds had been a very fast one and both boxers were tiring, but Hennessy had received more punishment of a kind that saps the strength and he showed signs of weakness beginning with the sixth round. As a result clinches became more frequent and the St. Louis boy began to do some covering, but not more than was excusable under the circumstances. He was fighting hard, though getting the worst of it, but he struggled on trying his best to offset his opponent's advantage.

It was the same throughout the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds. White, stronger, faster, hitting harder and shooting in straight right and left punches that reached Hennessy's face with punishing effect.

At infighting for the first five rounds they were evenly matched, but in the last three, as Hennessy grew weaker, White was best, and at long range White sent his blows in with more telling effect.

Just before entering the ring the boys weighed in and neither tipped the beam at 116 pounds, the weight agreed upon.

Stillman Some Sprinter.

The semi-windup was a comical affair between Nate Kalb of Chicago and Jimmy Stillman of St. Louis, who went on to box eight rounds at 120 pounds. Kalb is short of stature and Stillman very tall for the weight. Kalb was the aggressor throughout and kept Stillman on the run.

Stillman towered over Kalb, and because of this and his tremendous advantage of reach, managed to get in some swings, uppercuts and light jabs, but whenever Kalb managed to get close enough he more than made up for this, and several times it looked as if he might put the tall boy away, but somehow Stillman escaped it—usually by sprinting.

Jimmy Booth and Charley Leyh boxed eight rounds, and it was hard going for Leyh. The weight announced was 128 pounds, but Booth appeared to be 8 or 10 pounds over that, and was plainly out of condition.

Leyh did all right for three rounds, but after that Booth bored in with heavy swings and punches that punished Leyh and he weakened under them. Booth was easily the winner.

Benny Baker of the Columbian Athletic Club made a chopping block of Bob Grether, boxing at 123 pounds, and I stopped the bout in the second round when it was apparent that Grether was outclassed.

FATHER MATTY.

"YOU are old, Father Matty," the young man said,
"You're about at the end of your rope;
To finish your brilliant career as a Fed,
It strikes me would be the right dope."

"I know it, I know it," responded "Big Six,"
As he gave him a look of defiance:
So saying, his name he proceeded to fix
To a contract to play with the Giants.

• • •

Wonder if Rickey has contrived some kind of an automatic guillotine for lopping off heads.

• • •

It's No Joke to Fred.

We haven't heard that Fred Clarke of the Pirates has laughed himself to death over Matty's decision to stick with the Giants.

• • •

If the Feds succeed in snaring Sam Crawford, the old Detroit Tiger will be left with but one or two good teeth in its head.

• • •

We'll say this for the Cards: They've got the best alibi in either league.

• • •

Johnny McGraw is a lucky guy. It has always been generally accepted that he is a great baseball manager. If he'd lost "Matty" it would have been up to him to prove it.

• • •

• • •

The Hot Stove League season is getting shorter every year. After while, when the last game of the schedule has been played, the teams will hop the rattler for the training grounds.

• • •

With Bill James pitching one-hit games, it looks like first division.

• • •

It never occurred to Hughie Jennings to look over Pitcher Willett's record until after he had jumped to the Federals. After giving the record a glance over, Hughie discovered that the pitcher in question always lost the game in the seventh, eight or ninth inning. If "Freckles" had been on the job he would have discovered Edgar's limitations and removed him at the psychological moment.

Vincent Campbell plays professional baseball every other year. This being Vin's baseball year, he has decided to cast his lot with the Indianapolis Federals.

Glorious news from St. Augustine! "George Whitted had a good day and perspired in almost midseason form. Even 'Slim Sal' was perspiring and is of the opinion that he took on weight during the winter, as he seldom perspires in the spring." If that doesn't look like first division, I'm a goat.

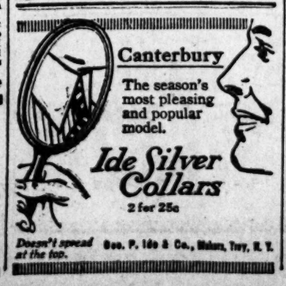

YAMADA AND SUTTON WIN BILLIARD MATCHES

CHICAGO, March 4.—George Sutton and Ko Ji Yamada, the Jap, were the winners of last night's balkline billiard tournament matches here. Sutton defeated Demarest, 500 to 339, averaging 17 24-28. Yamada defeated Slosson in a poorly played contest, 500 to 454; winner's average, 13 19-37.

FASTEST COLLEGE RUNNERS TO MEET IN M. A. C. GAMES

Patterson, Reller, Parker and O'Neil Are Some of the Stars in Special "Fifty."

A field of eight sprinters representing the pick of the Eastern and Western collegiate flock, will meet in a special invitation 50-yards dash as one of the feature events of the M. A. C. relay carnival at the Coliseum, March 14. The full entry list was announced Wednesday by Dr. Bassett and will include the following stars:

J. E. Patterson (Pennsylvania), Intercollegiate champion for 100 yards and holder of American college record, 9 4-5 seconds.

Oliver ReHer (Cornell), Junior National A. A. U. champion; record of 9 4-5 in dual meet with Michigan.

Irving Belote (Chicago A. A.), member of Stockholm Olympic team; record of 5 2-5 seconds for 50 yards.

C. O. Parker (Illinois A. C.), Western Conference champion for 100 yards, won as representative of Illinois U. last year.

J. Murray (Illinois U.), record of 5 3-5 seconds for 50 yards dash.

T. O'Neil (Kansas U.), unofficial record of 5 2-5 seconds for 50 yards.

Fred Helt (Kansas Aggies), winner of 100 yards dash in Kansas Intercollegiate championships.

The race will be run in two heats, two men to qualify in each heat for the final. Interest centers around Paterson and Reller (a St. Louis boy), who are recognized as the fastest men in the East, and of course these stars will run in different heats. Reller won the 100 yards event in every DUAL MEET in which Cornell competed last season, and was beaten only once, then by Patterson, who won the Intercollegiate championship 100. Patterson was forced to equal Barney Wefers' record of 9 4-5 seconds to beat Reller, who took second place.

There's still a chance that Frank Kuhn, the sensational sprinter of the Chicago A. A., may be a starter in this event, although Martin Delaney elected to nominate Belote as his representative.

Kuhn holds the N. A. A. U. record of 5 2-5 seconds for the 50-yard dash, made at Omaha three years ago. Since then Delaney has used Kuhn in the low hurdles and would prefer to have him specialize in this event. However, should any of the present nominees drop out, Kuhn will be substituted.

Last year McCawley of the M. A. C. won the special "fifty," defeating Reller and other stars.

Minor Leaguers Ask Majors for War Munitions

Representatives of 30 Leagues Will Meet National and American Moguls in New York.

NEW YORK, March 4.—The loss of many players to the Federal League and plans to offset the invasion will be discussed here on Friday by owners and representatives of minor league baseball clubs.

The special meeting has been called by the International League. Thomas H. Chivington of the American Association and John H. Farrell of Auburn, secretary of the National Association of Minor Leagues, will represent more than thirty of the smaller leagues.

All the club owners of both major leagues will be here on Friday, and it is likely that the big organizations will get together and help the minors in any way they can.

In view of the Federal invasion of Brooklyn, the International League may reconsider its action of last month and transfer the Jersey City Club to Brooklyn to play at Ebbet's Field when the Federals are at Washington Park. Baltimore and Buffalo will also have to defend themselves against the Federal invasion, while the American Association must formulate plans to fight the Federals in Kansas City and Indianapolis.

WILSON JUMPS GIANTS; SHAFER QUITS THE GAME

NEW YORK, March 4.

BY wire from Marlin, Tex., last night, John B. Foster, secretary of the New York Giants, received word from President Hempstead that Fred Snodgrass, the center fielder, had affixed his signature to a New York contract for three years. At one time it was thought that Snodgrass had signed to play with the Federal League, but in a letter to Foster, "Snod" denied that he had deserted the Giants.

The signing of Snodgrass completed the Giants' players now in this country, with the exception of Catcher Wilson and Tilly Shafer, who has quit the game for good.

Wilson has signed with the Federals and will backstop for Joe Tinker and his Chicago team during the coming campaign.

Missouri Quint Easy for Pikers in Second Game

Washington University has finally decisively defeated Missouri in one branch of sport. By winning the farewell basket ball game of the season from the Tigers, 33--15, Tuesday evening, the Pikeway five scored its third victory in four games with the Jungaleers this season.

Modisette again starred for the Pikers, scoring 15 of his team's 23 points. He tossed enough baskets to tie Missouri and as a result of his stellar work, he is in line for the captaincy of the local quintet next season.

Capt. Maenner of this year's team will be graduated this year, as will French and Berryhill. Missouri finished Tuesday's game with four men, Drumm and Carson being forced to retire.

ST. LOUIS "FEDS" RE-INCORPORATE, CAPITAL $135,000

Otto Stifel and Phil Ball Are Now Principal Stockholders.

In a statement filed with the Recorder of Deeds Wednesday afternoon, the St. Louis Federal League baseball club announced an increase in its capital stock of $115,000. A year ago the club was incoporated for $20,000. Tuesday new incorporation papers were drawn for $135,-000.

Otto F. Stifel, the brewer, owns a controlling interest in the local club, according to the new statement, while P. D. C. Ball, who has lately become interested in the venture, is the second largest stockholder. The stock is proportioned as follows, according to the statement:

Otto F. Stifel, 344.82 shares; P. D. C. Ball, 135.80 shares; E. A. Steininger, 27.20 shares; Henry Laumeier, 31.70 shares; Walter Fritsch, 21.51 shares; C. A. Parker, 12.70, and Arthur H. Bader, treasurer, 1.27.

An allegation is made that the club has the following assets: Cash on hand, $25,400; franchise and leasehold on park, $25,400. In the original incorporation $10,-000 was paid in.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Bring on the Battle Royal.

A LITTLE taste of our national pastime, as it might be with no reserve rule, may be served up if the belligerent members of organized and outlaw baseball carry out their threats to IGNORE CONTRACTS AND GRAB ANY PLAYER THAT LOOKS GOOD.

Absolute chaos will exist before the season is half over, if the Feds truly have enough cash to carry on such a war, and clubs will lack heart and the team work needed for big league baseball.

* * *

Hard Blow for Baseball.

OPEN bidding for players will mean that one city may start the season with a galaxy of stars and conclude with a tail-ender, if the warring factions dare to risk the coin.

And this is what the Feds will dare, declares President Gilmore, if the big leagues continue to ignore contracts made by players with outlaw clubs and TRY TO WIN BACK JUMPERS.

* * *

Such a condition couldn't last a season without wrecking every club in all leagues concerned. Fans would not support clubs whose makeup was constantly changing.

* * *

Up to Baker and Somers.

PHILADELPHIA National and Cleveland American owners will be responsible if this condition becomes a reality.

These clubs have ignored contracts signed by Killefer and Blanding—facts which the Feds consider as constituting a cause of war.

The OUTLAWS HAVE PLAYED FAIR with organized baseball. The burden of killing the game will, therefore, rest with the National Agreement leagues, if pilfering becomes the rule and teams go to pieces.

* * *

Competition Just a Dream.

IDEAL conditions for the player would make it possible for him to sell his services to the highest bidder, and to become a free agent at the expiration of his contract. But this situation is hardly more possible than the condition of warfare that may be expected if the outlaws go to the mat in earnest with the big leagues.

When teams cannot be held together for several seasons, no matter what the cause, then the national game is through.

* * *

The Progress of Boxing.

WHEN Willie Ritchie meets Ad Wolgast in their 10-round bout at Milwaukee, March 12, OVER 2000 WOMEN WILL WITNESS THE BOUT, according to information from the hops metropolis. The feminine attendance at bouts there has been increasing, according to a Milwaukee fan, now in the city, since the first show under the commission form of government.

Imagine women attending fights 20 years ago—or even 10, save in isolated and daredevil instances, when disguises helped out!

* * *

Good Matches Seldom Brutal.

BUT why not? There's nothing about the average boxing bout that resembles a hospital operation. If only clever men were put on it is doubtful if blood would be seen, save very rarely.

The supervision of boxing under the commission, as in New York and Wisconsin, is the solution of a problem that has vexed legislators and public alike.

Missouri needs such a law. The game is wanted here, but at present it is operating under a statute that was designed to meet conditions of 25 years ago—more than that, when London prize ring rules prevailed and anything went but biting and eye-gouging.

* *

These Training Camp Yarns.

HERE'S a recipe for the average training camp story, on which telegraph tolls are now being paid daily throughout the country: Borrow or rent one typewriter; purchase one quire of tough paper—it'll have to be tough to stand the strain; roll one alfalfa dream; fix your mind on the atomic theory, the nebular hypothesis, home-sweet-home or Ziegfeld's Follies and begin.

The "trained" writer will find the following expressions useful and, generally, sufficient for his purpose:

Arm like Walter Johnson's.
A second Ty Cobb.
Midseason form.
Sure to make good.
Fast as a bullet.
Better control than Matty.
Looks good, even in defeat.
Can't finish out of first division.
Great condition, wonderful eye, tremendous whip, lightning speed, full of pepper, never looked as good, etc.

Mix carefully with superlatives, season with Joe Miller wit and some of the more recent almanac jokes, and serve hot off the wire at night press rates—and there you are.

Good on the Baselines.

* * *

A. C. S.—Jack Johnson is considered the most skillful heavyweight of today, but whether he is the cleverest of all time is conjecture. James J. Corbett and Peter Jackson were two heavyweights generally believed to be the most scientific developed among the big men. That does not necessarily mean their cleverness always counted as fighting efficiency. Johnson's drawback is that his cleverness is chiefly employed in defense.

BROWNIES STEAL 9 BASES IN GAME WITH CARDINALS

From a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 4.—Florida fans today will be treated to the second spasm of the spring series between the second editions of the National and American League tail-enders—the Cardinals and Browns, respectively. In the initial tiff yesterday the "intensive baseball" as propounded by Branch Rickey won over the practical stuff of Miller Huggins, 3—2, in a keen contest.

Manager Huggins was forced to use two pitchers in the outfield while Manager Rickey with his collection of 47 athletes was better prepared to place men in their regular positions. However, the Brownies who have had better practice so far, completely outshone their adversaries, running wild on the tow paths. Nine bases were stolen in all and these thefts aided materially in the run getting. The runs were made as follows:

In the first inning with Niehaus pitching, Messenger drew a walk and swiped second as Heward struck out. Stimson also fanned but Niehaus in trying to pick Messenger off second, made a wild heave and Messenger scored.

Bold Hits and Scores.

In the second inning, with Niehaus still pitching, Bold bumped a single to center, stole second and went to third on Glenn's bum throw. Hollander combed an infield hit. Then the double-steal worked, Bold counting.

Lefty Stevens, the Brownie pitcher, held the Cards runless for four frames, fanning six men. One gone in the fifth, Hopper singled, advanced on Niehaus' infield tap, went to third on a force out at second and scored on a double steal. Dressan's pass, Hollander's error, a wild pitch and an infield out gave the Cards the tieing run in the fifth.

The Brownies won the game in the same inning after two were out. Hollander got a life on Beck's boot, stole second and scored on Dee Walsh's single to center.

Tennis Pairings for Davis Cup, Pleases Wrenn

Australia and Canada Will Meet in First Round Challenge Series.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Robert D. Wrenn, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, conducted the draw of the six nations challenging for the Davis cup in his office at 34 Broad street yesterday. Canada and Australia will meet in the first round in the upper half and the British Isles and Belgium in the lower half. Germany will meet the winner of the Canada-Australasia series, while France will meet either British Isles or Belgium.

"In my estimation," stated Wrenn, "the road is as perfect as we could have wished for, had it had been purposely arranged. We know from correspondence that the Canadian team will not go abroad and consequently this is certain to bring the famous Austrian quartette—Anthony F. Willing and Stanly N. Doust into action in the preliminary series in this country. It will also mean that the German team, of which Emperor William is said to be so proud, will come here. It will be a great thing for Americans ot see such men as Otte Froitzheim, Herman Kleinschroth and Oscar Kreutzer playing in this country.

"Wilding will surely wish to defend his singles title at Wimbledon and Willing and Brookes, I understand, are to make an assault on the doubles. The English championships are scheduled to be held from June 22 to July 4, inclusive. This would probably make it after the middle of July before the Australians could meet Canada here."

By such an arrangement the finals among the challenging nations might be decided the first week of August and the challenge matches for the cup the second week. Such a schedule would result in having all of the great players here for the all-comers national championship at Newport.

It comprises over 100 names and the globe-trotting players are sure to be impressed with the number of friends they have awaiting their arrival.

The Chicago delegation is due here on Friday, and it is expected that there will be about 100 in the party. They have chartered the excursion boat Niagara, and will go down the bay to meet the Lusitania.

Levinsky left a sick bed to take on McKay, and though he hit his big opponent about 200 times during the session of milling, his blows lacked force.

In cold or stormy weather it furnishes a completely enclosed car. As cosy and useful as the much-liked coupe. Yet the leather top folds, the side windows slip down into recesses in the doors and it becomes a breezy, open roadster in two minutes.

It is carried on the standard HUDSON Six-40 chassis. The light-weight, economical, low-priced Six that leads all the cars of 1914.

Few now care to consider a Four of almost obsolete type when for a less price this handsome, desirable Six is easily within reach.

J. I. CASE PLOW WORKS TO ERECT A WAREHOUSE

Takes 10-Year Lease on 2608-10 North Broadway and Will Build at Once.

The Mississippi Valley Trust Co. on Tuesday closed a deal involving $45,000 by which the Tyler estate leases for 10 years to the J. I. Case Plow Works of Racine, Wis., the property at 2608-10 North Broadway. The lot has a frontage of 40 feet and a depth of 150 feet.

The erection of a four-story and basement warehouse to cover the entire site will be started at once, and will add another large concern to the new agricultural business district. The warehouse will be equipped with shipping platforms connecting with the Wabash Railroad.

J. H. M'CLUNEY, 57 YEARS IN BANK'S SERVICE, IS DEAD

BEGAN AS A MESSENGER

Even After His Illness Began, He Personally Directed Affairs of Institution.

John H. McCluney, president of the State National Bank, died at 11:50 o'clock Tuesday night at his home, 4427 Westminster place, at the age of 73 years. He had been connected with the bank 57 years, rising from the position of messenger to that of president. The direct cause of death was heart disease. His condition became serious Monday evening. He had been in general ill health for several months and had been kept at home for a month. It became evident Tuesday that, despite the efforts of four physicians, he could not survive and his death was expected momentarily during the day.

Almost Unparalleled Record.

McCluney's record of 57 years' service with the bank is believed not to have been equaled by any other president in the Mississippi Valley and by few in the country.

He entered the service of the bank Dec. 2, 1857, as a messenger. A few years later he was made a teller. In 1867 he was promoted to assistant cashier. Three years later he became cashier. In 1889 he was elected vice-president and in 1907, following the death of President Charles Parsons, he was elected president. Until his health began to fail a few months ago he was at the bank every day, giving his personal attention to all of its affairs, and even after he became ill he kept his hand at the helm of the institution and remained in close touch with financial affairs in general.

As long as his health permitted he was at the bank every day at 9 o'clock and usually remained until 4 p. m. Under his administration the State National's reputation for conservatism was strengthened. The success and growth of the institution are conceded to have been largely due to his efforts.

McCluney was born in Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 2, 1840, and came to St. Louis with his parents when a boy. He was educated in St. Louis grammar and high schools and had his first banking experience with Renick & Peterson, private bankers. The State National was organized about a year before McCluney went to work in it. It was then the State Savings Institution. Its name was changed to the State Bank in 1888, and in 1899 it became the State National Bank.

Was Member of Home Guards.

Following the war the institution was a bank of issue, and it was McCluney's duty to travel to different cities in Missouri, present the notes, collect gold for them and bring the money to St. Louis.

McCluney was a member of the home guards during the Civil War. In 1874 he married Miss Clara Esther Copp, who survives him. These children also survive: Miss Clara McCluney, Mrs. Allen W. Caldwell, John H. McCluney Jr., Samuel C. McCluney, James McCluney, Daniel C. McCluney, Miss Mildred McCluney and Mrs. Cyrus Loutrell.

McCluney was a member of the St. Louis Country Club, the Noonday, Aero and Sunset Hill clubs.

SIMON'S SLAYER TO STAY IN CITY IF FREED ON BOND

Zang Says if Released, He Will Take Brother With Him as Bodyguard.

INQUIRY BY GRAND JURY

Prisoner Tells How He Held Off Simon's Friends Just After the Shooting.

Henry Zang, who followed out the unwritten code of gang ethics when he shot and killed Wesley (Red) Simon Monday afternoon, told reporters Wednesday he was ready to furnish bail immediately and would remain in St. Louis, even though gangsters might seek to avenge Simon's death.

"I have done enough running from that gang," Zang said, when reporters awakened him at 8 a. m. in his cell at Police Headquarters, where he spent his second night in jail sleeping on a wooden bench. "I spent a lot of money and went broke in my flight from that gang after I testified before the grand jury last April in the investigation of the killing of Emmett Carroll by Simon. I fled to New York and Canada, going from city to city, for I had feared the gang would get me because I was considered the State's most important witness against Simon.

Proposes to Stay in St. Louis.

"If the Court lets me out on bond I am going to get a job and stay right in St. Louis. My mother, sisters and brothers are here; everything I have is here. But I shall not venture upon the street without my brother, Joe, as a bodyguard."

Joseph Zang is described as a huskily built man, about 31 years old.

Even if Zang is charged with first-degree murder, he can be admitted to bail if the Court decides there was an element of self-defense in the killing. Simon, who had been on trial three hours for murder in the first degree when slain at the noon recess had been at liberty for 11 months on bail because the Court had decided there was an element of self-defense in the killing of Carroll in a saloon at Twenty-third and Olive streets the night of March 31, 1912.

The grand jury in the afternoon began its investigation of the Simon killing. Witnesses who testified at the Coroner's inquest Tuesday afternoon also will appear before the grand jury. A Coroner's jury, after hearing Zang himself and other witnesses testify, returned a verdict of homicide and held Zang to the grand jury. At Coroner Padberg's request a special detail of 25 detectives and a number of uniformed police were on guard at the inquest and every person was searched for weapons before being admitted to the inquest room.

Zang Heavily Guarded.

Zang's journey to and from Police Headquarters to the Municipal Courts Building, two blocks away, was without untoward incident. His bodyguard consisted of eight detectives, six special policemen and four uniformed patrolmen.

One thing Zang regrets is that the killing of Simon occurred in James Mooney's saloon at Thirteenth and Chestnut streets. "It looks as if I have placed Jim's saloon license in jeopardy and I wouldn't have done that for anything if it could have been helped," Zang said. "Jim is a mighty good friend of mine."

A new version of what happened after the shooting was related by the prisoner. He said he no sooner had fired at Simon than two of Simon's friends rushed into the cigar counter compartment from the bar. One of them, he said, started to stoop toward Simon's body. "I pointed my pistol at them," Zang said, "and cried, 'Don't touch that body and don't move.'"

"They threw up their hands and said, 'We're not going to touch you, Henry; we won't move.'

"Then I lost my nerve and told Mooney to telephone the police. Simon's pals ran out of the saloon. I am certain they were armed and were in a plot to get me. I think Simon's game was to get me to the cigar counter and start a quarrel and these two friends of his were to rush in and do me up. Simon had said, you remember, that I wouldn't live to testify against him."

Police Confirm His Story.

One of the two men, Zang said, had visited a saloon on Collinsville avenue in East St. Louis, where Zang was a bartender, several weeks ago. The information was conveyed to Zang that this man had two revolvers and intended putting Zang "off watch." Zang said he got nervous, pulled off his apron and was starting to flee through a rear door when friends in the saloon told him to stay where he was, and that they would get to the other fellow first. Word to this effect, Zang said, was conveyed to Simon's friend and the latter immediately boarded a car for St. Louis.

Detective Sergeant Frank McKenna said Zang's version of this incident was correct and was known to the police. The detectives know the man who figured in this episode and now are seeking him.

A policeman warned Zang he had better remain away from clubs, telling him some gangster probably would invite him into a club to have a drink and then slay him. Zang replied he had decided never to taste liquor again.

Guard at Lincoln Bier Dies.

PHILADELPHIA, March 4.—Augustus M. Conover, last surviving member of the guard of honor which watched over the body of Abraham Lincoln as it lay in state in Independence Hall, April 22, 1865, died at his home here yesterday. He was 77 years old.

Artist Avoids the Impressionistic or Cubist Style in Designing Advertisement.

The poster which will be used in advertising the Pageant and Masque of St. Louis, in Forest Park, May 28-31, throughout the United States, was received Wednesday at pageant headquarters, 750 Century Building. It is the work of J. C. Leyendecker of New York, magazine illustrator and painter.

The poster made a most favorable impression on pageant workers who saw it. It is a clear, finished work of art, with nothing of the impressionistic or cubist style about it. The coloring was particularly praised.

BUSINESS MEN, AT LUNCH, ENLIST AS PAGEANT ACTORS

Clarence H. Howard Among Those Responding to Luther Ely Smith's Appeal.

Members of the Business Men's League gathered at the Mercantile Club at luncheon on Wednesday to hear Luther Ely Smith speak on "The Pageant and Masque of St. Louis," and more than half expecting a financial appeal, were surprised when Smith, instead, urged them to enlist as actors in the pageant.

Passing enlistment cards among the lunchers, Smith said: "The best thing you can give the pageant is your own participation. That is more important than your dollars, whose importance we do not at all undervalue."

Gary-haired manufacturers and portly wholesale men looked hard at the cards and started whispered discussions as to whether they would score a greater stage hit as Indians or French cavaliers, or Spanish soldiers, and whether they would better put themselves down as dancers, singers or horseback riders.

Among those who signed the cards were Clarence H. Howard, president of the Commonwealth Steel Co.; George B. Simpson, general superintendent of the Wells Fargo Express Co.; O. Van Brunt, traffic manager of the Simmons Hardware Co.; T. W. Van, E. H. Boehnken, James P. Powers, M. W. Kendall, W. H. Bloomer, F. B. Cutter, W. A. Wheeland, T. P. Chapman and D. F. Leake. A number took cards to distribute among friends and employes.

Replies to City's Critics.

Smith, in a vigorous address, made civic co-operation his keynote. He mentioned the criticisms of St. Louis made in interviews by Julian Street and Wallace Morgan, representing an Eastern publication, and said:

"If they go away from here and write that there is no ginger in St. Louis without having visited the pageant headquarters in the Century Building, and if their paper prints such a statement, it will be laying itself open to reprisals.

"There has been some apprehension in St. Louis," he continued, "about the progress that Cleveland, Detroit and Los Angeles are making, as if they might overtake us. Now, the thing those three cities have done has been to capitalize their plans for beauty and the progressiveness of their people. Yet none of them has as much civic spirit to the square inch as St. Louis.

"The pageant gives us an unparalleled opportunity for focusing our public spirit on one point, and showing our civic spirit of its highest and best.

"No city in the United States ever has undertaken anything on so large a scale, and with such an inspiring end in view—not only to reproduce faithfully the stirring incidents of our history, but to cast the vision of the future. This will be done under the most favorable conditions known to art. The drama, the music and the lighting effects will form a wonderful combination.

"And best of it all is that the entire city is to take part. We are not doing this just for advertising, but we cannot help getting the widest and most favorable sort of advertising from it."

Smith told how the pageant idea had its inception in the annual exercises given by the children of the city playgrounds. In the morning, he said, the different playgrounds meet in the most spirited rivalry in competitive games, but in the afternoon, when they take part together in a pageant, all rivalry subsides and the spirit of the entire body of children appears. The same unity of expression, he said, can be attained by the whole city through the pageant, which, he declared, will make for true democracy.

"Thus," he said, "we shall capitalize our vision of beauty and our progressiveness. These are the things that put a city forward, and not merely its tonnage and its bank clearings."

Hackett Inherits Fortune of a Niece Who Had Ignored Him

Bulk of $3,500,000 for the Actor

Mrs. Minnie Hackett Trowbridge Desires That Others Should Have Her Property.

COULDN'T CHANGE WILL

Her Condition After Aphasia Attack Made Carrying Out of Wishes Impossible.

JAMES K. HACKETT.

NEW YORK, March 4.—James K. Hackett, the actor, according to a story printed here, inherits the bulk of the $3,500,000 estate left by Mrs. Minnie Hackett Trowbridge, who died at her home yesterday morning from the effects of a stroke of apoplexy suffered in 1908.

Mrs. Trowbridge desired that others should inherit her property, as she had never received Hackett at her home, had declined to hold any communication with him and had expressed totally different purposes and plans for her money. But Hackett will receive the money because he is an uncle of Mrs. Trowbridge and nearest of kin and entitled to a residuary estate bequeathed to her husband, Francis E. Trowbridge, who died in 1910.

Suffering from aphasia at the time of her husband's death, Mrs. Trowbridge was declared incompetent the following year by the courts, which made it impossible for her to make a new will, although in lucid intervals it was a matter of poignant grief to her.

Wanted to Remember Cousins.

She had cousins, T. Oakey Hall, Mrs. George Peabody Wetmore, wife of the United States Senator from Rhode Island; Miss Alice Keteltas, whom she loved, and Mrs. James L. Clancey, who had devoted years of her life to making her comfortable; but she could not do anything for them out of affection except that which had been done through specific bequest in a will of 1908. It may be that the law will give these cousins something out of some portion of the estate, but it is agreed that the bulk of it will go to Hackett.

Mrs. Minnie Hackett Trowbridge was the daughter and only child of John Keteltas Hackett, distinguished for years as Recorder of New York City. He was the son of James Henry Hackett, "Falstaff" Hackett, a great actor of the first half of the nineteenth century. Recorder Hackett was the son of the actor by his first wife, Katherine, who was herself famous on the stage of England and the United States. She died in 1845.

"Falstaff" Hackett took a second wife when he was an old man, and James K. Hackett is the only child of this marriage, born in 1869, when his father was 69 years old.

The second marriage of the actor was never received with favor by other members of the family. The Recorder himself was opposed to it and this opposition was felt by his daughter to the end of her 67 years.

Fortune came to Miss Minnie Hackett from three directions. She was not married until she was past 60 years old, but she was a visitor at Newport, a traveler, an art collector, fond of society and all the arts.

She inherited a large amount from her father, which was added to by the fortune of her mother, and all of this was augmented by a bequest made to her by Charles Contoit, long the dean of the Trinity Church corporation, which consisted almost wholly of stock in the most prosperous banks of the city.

She was past 50 when she became engaged to a man named Moulton of Vermont. The marriage was arranged and Moulton came to New York for the wedding. He stopped at the Manhattan Hotel and was stricken with pneumonia, of which he died. Miss Hackett then went into mourning and thought no more of marriage, she told her friends.

Frances Emery Trowbridge was well past 60 years in 1905. He had been a stockholder in Wall street at one time, once with a connection with the firm of E. H. Harriman. He lost all his money and times went pretty hard with him. He had enough to retain his membership in the Union League Club and added to his income by doing work for newspapers.

Weds Wall Street Man.

Like Trowbridge, Miss Hackett was fond of music and the mutual interest made the elderly Wall street man a visitor at the beautiful home of the wealthy and elderly spinster. They were married at St. Thomas' Church so quietly on Dec. 23, 1907, that the members of the family did not know of it until the following March.

Mrs. Trowbridge as Miss Minnie Hackett made a will which left her fortune to relatives. This will was destroyed. There was another will made early in 1908, which brings the fortune to Hackett. In this will, after making bequests to her cousins, Mrs. Trowbridge left the residue to her husband, and did not provide for its disposition otherwise in case of his dying first, as he did.

Friends said yesterday that at the time she made her will, and before and afterward, Mrs. Trowbridge expressed the determination that her uncle should not receive any of her property. She still continued to refuse to receive him or to have anything whatever to do with him. It was said yesterday that it was doubtful that she ever met him.

There has been no criticism of the actor's attitude. At intervals he would call at the house as a relative, send in his card, and receive word that his niece as not at home and would depart. This program was followed until within a few months ago.

Mrs. Trowbridge suffered the stroke of paralysis, Nov. 28, 1908. She became helpless on one side and aphasia followed. Trowbridge died in September, 1910, of typhoid fever.

Mrs. Trowbridge would have changed her will after she recovered from the grief of her husband's death, but the mental weakness had so far developed that no lawyer would consent to draw a new instrument.

Lawyers agreed that under the law the will could not be broken, and could not be superseded. In March, 1911, application was made to the Supreme Court for the appointment of a committee of the person and estate of Mrs. Trowbridge, which swept away for all time any hope of a change of the provisions of the will.

Dyspeptics Envy All Good Eaters

But If They Would Stop Fearing Food and Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets They Could Eat Heartily.

It is not only sad, but amusing as well, to watch dyspeptics regard a friend as that friend talks about a fine meal he has just enjoyed.

To the dyspeptic there comes only the thought of the pain, the belching, the indigestion, etc., that follows the meal and the awful sense of repugnance that occurs while the meal is being eaten.

The easy way, the pleasant way, is to use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets that quickly restore appetite and build up the worn-out body by the perfect assimilation of food.

These little digestors are powerful, pleasant, and produce almost immediate digestion of any meal. If you will use them occasionally you will quickly learn what a joy food really is. One cannot hope to help nature by eating food from which a weakened digestion cannot take the ingredients it needs.

The only way is to put these ingredients in a pure form into the body. Then when they are absorbed the system at once starts rebuilding and is enabled to soon perform its proper and perfect functions.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain the very essences most demanded and desired by the body to do its work of taking nutrition from food.

As soon as the stomach is enabled to stop food decay and balance its gastric juices, then raw stomach gas, foul breath, catarrh, heartburn, bowel trouble, etc., disappear. The result is always the same. This fact alone is what has made Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets the greatest dyspepsia and stomach remedy ever sold. They are on sale at every drug store and you may obtain a box anywhere. Price 50 cents.—ADV.

How You May Throw Away Your Glasses

The statement is made that thousands wear eyeglasses who do not really need them. If you are one of these unfortunates, then these glasses may be ruining your eyes instead of helping them. Thousands who wear these "windows" may prove for themselves that they can dispense with glasses if they will get the following prescription filled at once: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Optona; fill a two-ounce bottle with warm water and drop in one Optona tablet. With this harmless liquid solution bathe the eyes two to four times daily, and you are likely to be astonished at the results right from the start. Many who have been told that they have astigmatism, eye-strain, cataract, sore eyelids, weak eyes, conjunctivitis and other eye disorders, report wonderful benefits from the use of this prescription. Get this prescription filled and use it; you may so strengthen your eyes that glasses will not be necessary. Thousands who are blind, or nearly so, or who wear glasses would have never required them if they had cared for their eyes in time. Save your eyes before it is too late! Do not become one of these victims of neglect. Eyeglasses are only like crutches and every few years they must be changed to fit the ever-increasing weakened condition, so better see if you can, like many others, get clear, healthy, strong magnetic eyes through the prescription here given.—ADVERTISEMENT.

How I Darkened My Gray Hair

Lady Gives Simple Home Recipe That She Used to Darken Her Gray Hair.

For years I have tried to restore my gray hair to its natural color with the prepared dyes and stains, but none of them gave satisfaction, and they were all expensive. I finally ran onto a simple recipe which I mixed at home that gives wonderful results. I gave the recipe, which is as follows, to a number of my friends, and they are all delighted with it. To 7 oz. of water add a small box of Barbo Compound, 1 oz. of bay rum and ¼ oz. of glycerine. Use every other day until the hair becomes the required shade, then every two weeks. It will not only darken the gray hair, but removes dandruff and scalp humors, and acts as a tonic to the hair. It is not sticky or greasy, does not rub off and does not color the scalp. You can prepare it at home at very little expense.—ADV

JAMES PLEW IS HANGED FOR WAKEFIELD MURDER

Woman, Jointly Convicted With Him, Occupies Cell 100 Feet Away; Is Unmoved.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 4.—James Plew was hanged in the State prison at Wethersfield, shortly after midnight, for the murder of William O. Wakefield, on June 23.

Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield, for love of whom Plew had done the slaying, and who also was convicted of the murder, occupied a cell not 100 feet from the execution chamber. She had been sentenced to die at the same time as Plew, but received a stay of execution, which was argued before the Appellate Court yesterday.

The sound from the gallows went to every part of the jail, and several prisoners, aware of the execution, uttered cries of terror. But Mrs. Wakefield was on her cot apparently asleep and indifferent to the noise which told that Plew, whom she admitted she loved more than she did her husband, had met his death.

Novelist Hanshew Dies in London.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Word was received here today of the death in London on Monday of Thomas W. Hanshew, novelist. He was born in Brooklyn in 1857. One of his best-known works was "Cleek of the Forty Faces."

HOW I MADE MY HAIR GROW

Woman With Marvelously Beautiful Hair Gives Simple Home Prescription Which She Used With Most Remarkable Results.

I was greatly troubled with dandruff and falling hair. I tried many advertised hair preparations and various prescriptions, but they all signally failed; many of them made my hair greasy so it was impossible to comb it or do it up properly. I think that many of the things I tried were positively injurious, and from my own experience I cannot too strongly caution you against using preparations containing wood alcohol and other poisonous substances. I believe they injure the roots of the hair. After my long list of failures, I finally found a simple prescription which I can unhesitatingly state is beyond doubt the most wonderful thing for the hair I have ever seen. Many of my friends have also used it, and obtained wonderful effects therefrom. It not only is a powerful stimulant to the growth of the hair and for restoring gray hair to its natural color, but it is equally good for removing dandruff, giving the hair life and brilliancy, etc., and for the purpose of keeping the scalp in first-class condition. It also makes the hair easier to comb and arrange in nice form. I have a friend who used it two months, and during that time it has not only stopped the falling of his hair and wonderfully increased its growth, but it practically restored all of his hair to its natural color. You can obtain the ingredients for making this wonderful preparation from almost any druggist. The prescription is as follows:

Bay Rum, 6 oz.; Menthol Crystals, ½ drachm; Lavona de Composee, 2 oz. If you like it perfumed, add 1 drachm of your favorite perfume. This, however, is not necessary. Apply night and morning; rub thoroughly into the scalp.—ADV.

WHY 7000 DRUGGISTS

Guarantee and Recommend Vinol.

If any one should know the value of a medicine it is the retail druggist who sells it.

Therefore, when over seven thousand of the best retail druggists in the country recommend Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the greatest tonic, reconstructor and strength creator they have ever sold, it must indicate the value of Vinol.

We could publish columns of such testimony as the following:

J. C. Brady, druggist of Fall River, Mass., says: "In cases where cod liver oil, emulsions and other tonics fail, Vinol will heal, strengthen and cure."

C. A. Potterfield, druggist, of Charleston, W. Va., says: "It is a pleasure to sell Vinol as it gives such universal satisfaction."

Hunter & McGee, druggists, of Jackson, Miss., say: "We have great confidence in the strength creating and curative value of Vinol."

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person or any person suffering from chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis, to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. ADMITS HE MADE DIVORCE WITNESS "HIGH-BROW" LOVE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 4.—Chester Chapin Rumrill, as the closing witness for the defense, yesterday, told of his "intellectual" love for Mrs. Lois Burnett Rantoul, a granddaughter of James Russell Lowell, who is suing for divorce, alleging cruel treatment.

Rumrill testified that Rantoul and he had been close friends at Harvard, belonged to some of the same societies and continued this friendship on graduation. He said he met Mrs. Rantoul about 1905 through her brother, Joseph Burnett, and was an usher at her wedding. He added that he saw the Rantouls frequently, took meals at their home and stayed over night at Elmwood and Beverly farms.

"Did your relations with Mrs. Rantoul ever extend beyond friendship?" he was asked.

"Yes, I should say it started in the fall of 1910 and continued to the following summer," he replied. "There was never any actual declaration between us, but it was understood that we cared for each other."

"Did Mrs Rantoul permit you any liberties?"

"Yes," admitted Rumrill. "I kissed her several times and she also has kissed me."

Rumrill admitted that he corresponded with Mrs. Rantoul whenever he got a chance by letter, telephone and telegraph. Rumrill also said he had given Mrs. Rantoul books, flowers, silk stockings, handkerchiefs, a small bag and a pair of earrings worth $300. He admitted visiting the Rantoul house when Rantoul was away.

In rebuttal, Mrs. Rumrill said he returned from Greenfield in 1913, after her husband had agreed she should see Rumrill and have a sleeping room to herself.

A WELL-KNOWN LOCAL CIGAR MANUFACTURER

Says He Has Received Greatest Benefit From Plant Juice and Adds Praise to Others.

Mr. Henry A. Allgeyer, a well-known cigar manufacturer of this city, whose place of business is located at 1410 Salisbury street, who has been in business here for the last twenty-six years, and is known as a man of integrity and straightforwardness, has the following to say about Plant Juice, the new tonic:

"I was in pretty bad shape from stomach trouble and a general rundown and debilitated condition. I could not eat anything much and was tired and fagged out. A friend told me to try Plant Juice, and I am happy to say that I followed his advice, for it has certainly fixed me up all right. I am now getting some for some friends of mine, for I believe in passing a good thing along. Plant Juice is a great remedy."

Those who suffer from any derangement of the stomach should lose no time in getting a bottle of Plant Juice. The results are quick and certain; it will give you a good appetite and put your stomach into condition to digest the food; it stimulates the torpid, sluggish liver into action, corrects constipation, eradicates all malaria from the system, purifies the blood, steadies the nerves, brightens the eyes, brings color to the cheeks, and vigor and elasticity to the entire body. For sale at Wolff-Wilson's drug store.—ADV.

Fair Treatment for Express Companies.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

On behalf of the express companies I desire to extend to you our high appreciation of your courteous consideration of and helpful views regarding the present express situation. We believe it essential that the public should be advised as to present conditions affecting their interests and the express service is one of such matters. It is unnecessary to consider the express companies of yesterday—that is history. It is the express companies of today, and their usefulness, which should be dealt with, and on which judgment should be passed.

The continuance of an efficient express service is now admitted to be vital to the interests of the mercantile world, and to insure its continuance, the express companies must be permitted to operate under conditions and schedules which will enable them to exist and earn a fair profit.

We shall always welcome your helpful suggestions and friendly criticism, while passing through a reconstruction period, and adapting ourselves to changed conditions. FRANCIS S. STAGG,
First Vice-President American Express Co.

A Reason for It.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

It is asserted that the back rooms of 415 Chicago saloons contribute to the delinquency of more than 14,000 girls every 24 hours, and that the sign "family entrance," is a misnomer. Can anyone, at least in Chicago, wonder that there is so much opposition to the liquor traffic? APPALLED.

Fels' Memorial Fund.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The death of Mr. Fels makes it peculiarly appropriate for all of us to join right now in a testimonial that will be far more appreciated by him than any flowers would be.

I am writing this letter to 82 present contributors to the Fels fund and about 300 others, in the hope that we can raise from $500 to $1000 to be sent to Daniel Kiefer, chairman of the Fels Fund Commission, as a special mark of appreciation of Mr. Fels' great work, from Missouri single taxers. I believe that such a token coming at this time will give wonderful impetus to the movement, and that it will arouse the whole United States to imitate our example.

I hope that every St. Louis supporter of this fund will join in this special contribution. Let it represent the real sentiment of your hearts toward this wonderful man and the movement that his name stands for.

Value of a Status Quo.

Associations Vote for Reber Approach.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The affiliated improvement associations of North and Northwest St. Louis, that comprise 29 different improvement and civic organizations, and have about 5000 members, held a meeting in the Cabanne Branch of the Public Library Feb. 27. Many important subjects were discussed, but the most important one was the free bridge approach. W. W. Ring, president of the Union Improvement and Civic Association who was elected first vice-president of the Affiliated Associations at the meeting, made a motion to go on record for the Reber approach bond issue. It was debated and the president, C. M. Farrar, put the motion to a vote which carried unanimously. The recording secretary, R. Goodenough, received two applications for membership, which were accepted for consideration.

All outside improvement and civic organizations are invited to join the Affiliated Associations of North and Northwest St. Louis, as much can be accomplished.

Answer From Mrs. Upperflat.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I feel very sorry for the downstairs lady to think she has to go out and clean the snow. Where is your husband? Is he too good to clean a little snow? He is not a hard-working man or perhaps he has a big cinch of a job at the city hall, and his wife looks upon the unemployed as bums who do not want to work and when they offer to clean her walk for a few cents she refuses and takes a shovel and does it herself. She is a grouch and does not believe in live and let live and she says if she lived upstairs she would help when she is kicking about her duty to clean a little snow.

ONE WHO TAKES IT EASY UPSTAIRS.

ONE YEAR OF WILSON.

Wilson has given a new tone to American life; that is the real accomplishment, the big meaning, of his year in the presidency. That is what cannot be undone in history.

The Wilson achievements so far expressed in legislation are, some of them, epochal, but not perpetual. Tariff and banking reform, even the income tax, may appear insignificant down the long sweep of years.

His statesmanship in building up a working engine out of a demoralized party; holding it to the execution of pledges he had made; and in wielding and converting the mighty force of public opinion into legislative momentum must go down large in the historic record. But these performances are narrowly political if not partisan. Subsequent waves of party legislation may wipe them out. To restore the Democratic party was comparatively trivial. To democratize the United States was a weighty achievement.

To date Wilson's influence, material, has been only manifest, not demonstrated substantially. There has not been time. The workings of the Wilson economics are incipient. Such legislative measures as he has fathered and enforced, and those which he promises, are at best economic incidents. If he shall have reduced the cost of living, killed Morganism, fostered industry and opened an era of prosperity based on national conditions more wholesome and permanent than past ones—so much the better. But deeper than the fruition of legislation, which the country awaits with hope, is a great work already accomplished, the effects of which can never be lost to the world.

That is the impulse of vigor imparted to American thought; the reanimation and impetus given to ideals that had fallen by the way in a mad onrush of greedy materialism. Wilson has sunk deeper the principles of liberty, equality and justice into the American mind—the roots find new life and strength in soil which he has fertilized afresh. He has, both by precept and practice, rehabilitated the big fundamentals of the world's leading example of democracy. He has revived and enlarged the universal ideal of democracy.

Wilson's administration may fail utterly in the coming three years. Some of his policies might prove materially disastrous. Panics, wars, famine or pestilence may befall. It is conceivable that Wilson himself might prove puny in a crisis; that his Cabinet might disgrace him; that Congress should betray the people; that the Democratic party should go to rack and ruin and end its very existence.

But the first year of Wilson will have been worth while, whatever befalls. His concepts will inure to the benefit of mankind. The revolution which his idealism has brought about and the new tone given to American thought will have lasting effect.

COMPARATIVE INCOME TAX RETURNS.

No comparative statement of facts set forth in income tax returns is needed to show that the net income of the Frisco is very much less than that of certain large stockholders who have been beneficiaries of the Frisco idea of finance.

A pending receivers' suit in the nature of a financial transfusion of blood promises at least some restorative and energizing effects on the emaciated Frisco's resources by the time the next year's returns are submitted.

GOOD, BUT NOT GOOD ENOUGH.

The freeholders have tentatively decided to provide in the new city charter for 14 Aldermen instead of 28, as first proposed. This is a step toward making the new city board a workable Board of Directors instead of an unwieldy political caucus.

The freeholders' further decision to adhere to the ward basis, by providing that not more than one of the 14 Aldermen can be chosen from any ward, is disappointing. Until St. Louis' city government shall be dissociated wholly from the ward idea and planned and managed as a central business institution acting for the whole city as a unit, we shall continue to be cursed with the littleness, delays and petty scandals inseparable from ward politics.

There is no middle ground; the city is a legal and economic unit; it must, if the highest efficiency in the management of its affairs is to be obtained, be organized as a political unit.

The gang spirit without the restraints of gang ethics seems to be creeping into domestic affairs. The gang murders in St. Louis in 12 years number 23, but in three years five wives have murdered their husbands.

THE UNEMPLOYED CENSUS.

The figures of the police count of unemployed in St. Louis, taken for the United States Commission on Industrial Relations, show that, of the 10,411 jobless men found in the various districts, only 666 were nonresidents. This should dispose of the assertion that St. Louis has become a city of refuge for the unemployed in general, because of the opening of the Municipal Lodging House. Here are 9745 St. Louis men, and we are not told how many women, looking for work. Did they throw up their jobs in order to flock into the Municipal Lodging House?

It appears to be an abnormal condition, doubtless due in large measure to the severe climatic conditions lately. There can be little doubt that, with the coming of spring, most of these unemployed will find positions, either here or elsewhere. In the meantime, employers who expect to enlarge their forces of workers a little later might well consider the advisability of hastening the process, if possible. The police captains, with one exception, report that lack of work increases crime, which is what might be expected. Hence, it is a civic duty to do all that can be done to place these thousands of workers in positions to be self-sustaining. The State Employment Bureau and the various civic organizations should co-operate to this end. An employed man is a source of strength and a credit to the city. A man who sees no prospect of making an honest living is a menace to any community.

A belief that legislative poker is only a piker's game compared with the one now in progress with the Capitol stone contracts as the stakes may explain the dismissal of the gambling cases at Jefferson City.

THE BENTON CASE.

The speech of Sir Edward Grey, British Foreign Minister, on the Benton case serves to remind the United States Government that the incident is not a light one to be easily closed.

Sir Edward assumed a temperate and diplomatic tone, but gave no room for doubt that his Government would insist upon a full statement of facts and upon reparation if the facts justified such a demand.

His attitude toward our Government was beyond criticism. He credited Washington with good faith in the intention to protect British subjects as well as American citizens with zeal. He said Great Britain would await action by the United States. He ridiculed the suggestion of a British invasion of Mexico, but made it clear that the British Government would not let the case drop until it had obtained full satisfaction.

The significant point of the speech is the certainty of increasing pressure to restore order in Mexico. Having undertaken to deal alone with Mexico, the United States must assume to a large extent responsibility for the safety of foreigners in Mexico. What will be the effect of this increasing pressure? How long can the Wilson administration withstand it?

St. Louisans, restive under the irksome House of Delegates oligarchy, note some events in a review of the national year that cause an earnest desire for a little of that new freedom in their own town.

CARRANZA PLAYING HIS CARDS.

The Washington Government, ignoring Junta President Carranza, tried to conduct diplomatic negotiations directly with the Carranza Government's field commander, Villa. Washington wishes to avoid "recognizing" the Carranza constitutionalist government. Villa shrewdly referred the Washington communication to his President. Carranza shrewdly bade Washington "come again," this time addressing him as the responsible executive.

There is a name for the course which Washington indiscreetly invited Villa to adopt. It is treason. Its punishment is death. Villa knows his trade. Carranza knows his rights.

M'GLYNN'S BOOMERANG.

When Daniel McGlynn at the dinner of the East St. Louis Industrial League advocated the perpetuation of the bridge arbitrary he misled his fellow East St. Louisans.

It is certain that if the bridge arbitrary survives all assaults the Interstate Commerce Commission will force its application on all traffic crossing the river. It will be applied on East St. Louis as well as St. Louis traffic.

East St. Louis enjoyed advantages in the bridge arbitrary as hitherto levied because it was applied to St. Louis traffic alone. It was levied only on St. Louis passengers and goods. It was the injustice to St. Louis which helped East St. Louis.

If the Interstate Commerce Commission permits any charge to remain it will equalize it. While East St. Louis may therefore gain something in the difference in coal rates between the two cities, it will lose in other discriminations against the entire industrial and commercial district.

East St. Louis will find it the part of wisdom to join St. Louis in demanding just railroad rates and conditions for the entire district, the growth and prosperity of which are the foundations of the growth and prosperity of both cities. They should stand together against abnormal and discriminating practices and charges. The closer the cities are united the better for both. Injustice is a boomerang.

Under charges himself, perhaps Judge Wright of the District of Columbia will be more inclined to let bygones be bygones in the case of Samuel Gompers et al.

EXPRESS COMPANIES' COMPETITION.

The Merchants' Association of New York, which was instrumental in bringing the express companies under regulation by the Interstate Commerce Commission, is now protesting against further extension of the parcel post service on the ground that such extension may result in the complete ruin of the express companies. This suggests the question whether, with the reduced rates and newly aroused desire to give the public good service, it would not be wise to maintain competition by the express companies with the parcel post, rather than give the Government a complete monopoly of the express industry.

The parcel post has its legitimate field, in the carrying of packages which the senders are willing to entrust to the Postoffice without getting a receipt and without insurance. Registration, for which an extra fee is charged, is not insurance, and registered articles lost or stolen give the loser no valid claim against the Government. Reimbursement for such lost or stolen articles involves a long and tedious delay. The Government can neither be sued nor hurried in the matter. The express companies now insure all packages free up to $50 without extra charge. Is the Postoffice prepared to do this?

The Postoffice does not collect parcels from customers; the express companies do. It gives no receipts, except when parcels are registered. Express offices receipt for all packages. The postal service is hampered by a lot of red tape, and excludes a large number of commodities which the express companies willingly carry. It assumes the privilege of opening packages in transit, if there is any suspicion of a violation of its rules by the sender; no express company does this.

If, as Postmaster-General Hitchcock hoped when the parcel post was first put in force, it shall result in compelling the express companies to sell out to the Government, would the public be satisfied with the result? We should have a public monopoly, with no possible competition to fall back upon for relief from inefficiency, bureaucratic tyranny or to supply exceptional service.

MAJOR: "I NEED GOOD ROADS."

JUST A MINUTE.

BALLADE OF PRESENT-DAY HALOS.

The old-fashioned halo that rode the breeze
Was too unstable, we think, by far.
It was something ethereal, like a star
The other side of the seven seas;
Now the ladies wear them around their knees.

NOW the ladies wear them around their knees,
We view them now with a restful ease—
Their evanescence was one's despair,
But lo! they are captive, if you please,

ENVOY.

Prince, we have bitterly endured
A lot of Fashion's fool decrees;
But we do endorse the halo moored,

Another Word With City Papers.

A few days ago Lord Decies, while traveling in California with his wife, lost his hand bag containing his comb and brush, and had to comb his hair with his wife's comb! This interesting item of news was telegraphed all over the world by the Associated Press. And now another startling news item has been discovered. Miss Eleanor Wilson, the President's daughter, attended a theater a few nights ago and not having had her supper, she actually ate a bun while viewing the performance! This, too, was hurriedly telegraphed all over the continent. Yet some people think the country papers are publishing piffle when the say that Abner Green has painted his barn or that Mrs. Kate Kernoodle has boils.—Montgomery County (Ill.) News.

The Paregoric Business Was Never Like This.

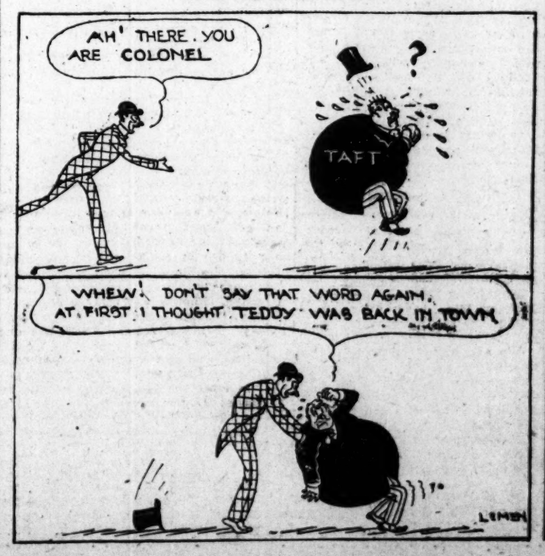

A drug firm at Columbia is still able to thrive, although it has had to pay $6600 in the past three years for violating the local option laws.—Vandalia (Mo.) Leader.

Don't Rock the Boat, Either.

Through envy or some grudge or other, a report was started some few weeks ago that Miss Verlie Katherine Vest, the daughter of Mrs. Laura Vest, was married. We wish to announce to the public and to each and every one that it is a great mistake. Some people have concerned themselves to this matter as though it hurt or pinched them in some way. We desire to say to them that has taken a part in this, that if they would row their own boat to the shore instead of standing on their tiptoes watching to see what become of someone else's boat would be better for them. The right way for to get through is for each and everyone "To paddle his own canoe."—Verlie Katherine Vest.—Springfield (Ky.) News-Leader.

He: Will you marry me?
She: What alimony could you pay?

THAT DESPISED TITLE.

DEATH OF A MORMON PIONEER.

From the Tacoma Ledger.

Richard Douglass, pioneer Mormon, who died at Ogden, Monday, is survived by 14 children, 62 grandchildren and 54 great-grandchildren. It was the Mormon belief, and probably the belief is still entertained, that a man's chances of glory in the world to come were increased if he had many wives and children. The dispatches do not say whether Douglass adhered to that belief to the end of his life. If he did, he probably found satisfaction in the number of his descendants.

Douglass was a young man when Nauvoo, Ill., was founded. Joseph Smith, who claimed to have discovered golden plates on which records of Mormon were inscribed, founded the first church organization in New York. Later the band moved to Ohio, where the church increased in numbers and in wealth. The next move was to Jackson County, Mo., where the Mormons were opposed by the prevailing sentiment of the people. They moved to Clay County, but in 1838 the Governor of Missouri took steps that resulted in their being driven out of the state. Then the Mormons founded Nauvoo and a temple was built in accord with plans Smith said he had received in a vision.

In 1847 a party of 143 pioneers started west for the Promised Land. Douglass was one of this party. It reached the valley of the Great Salt Lake in July, 1847. Certainly the country did not look like a Promised Land when the Mormons arrived, but with irrigation they soon prospered. The first year their crops were small because irrigation had been but little developed. Crickets were destructive, but the gulls appeared and made way with the crickets. In gratitude for the service of those birds in the early trying days, the Mormons recently erected a monument to the gulls.

POTATOES IN TISSUE PAPER.

From the Boston Herald.

And now the progressive Northwest is putting frills on the prosaic and democratic potato. Montana growers are shipping to New York boxes of potatoes of assorted sizes, each potato carefully wrapped in tissue. Each box is of 60 pounds, but the potatoes are packed according to size, so that the boxes contain 25, 30, 40, 50, 60 or 70 potatoes each. And the New York people, who like the smell of burning money, are paying $3 a box for these potatoes—two or three times as much as for Aroostook potatoes, which are unquestionably of better quality. The potato growers of Aroostook are not devoid of enterprise themselves, and they are likely to take the hint. It was discussed at the Potato day convention recently held at Bangor, but what will be the effect on the great bulk of consumers if Aroostook takes to sending out its 25,000,000 bushels of potatoes wrapped in tissue and carefully numbered in small crates?

High Cost of Farming.

From the Washington Star.

"Yes," replied Mr. Corntossel. "When a farmer is supposed to know the botanical name of what he's raisin' an' the zoological name of the insect that eats it, and the chemical name of what will kill it, somebody's got to pay."

New Orleans' Snow Storm.

From the New Orleans Times-Democrat.

By way of extenuating the climatic outrages perpetrated by their local weather clerks last week, numbers of Northern newspapers played up on their front pages the fact that it even snowed in New Orleans.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

BEAUTY CULTURE.

F. J. D.—Short person may try stretching exercises.

G. W. E.—Make wide eyebrows appear narrower by using an eyebrow brush.

IGNORANCE.—There are other oils that are better to use on the skin than olive oil. If taken internally, it tends to clear the complexion.

DOMINO.—Said to start mustache: Twelve drops croton oil and half-ounce (troy) sweet oil of almonds. Mix and rub on skin gently twice daily. If too irritating, double the quantity of sweet almond oil. (Poisonous.)

A. R. C.—If blackheads too small to press, use a wash cloth and warm water after letting cold cream soften the skin. Just a few at the time, touching each pore with diluted alcohol to slightly contract after the matter is out.

S. F. G.—Pimples should be treated from within. Keep the system in good condition. Wash the face once a day with good soap. Rinse off all soap. Somebody says peroxide, allowed to dry on, will remove freckles. If used too strong, it is bad for the skin.

HEALTH HINTS.

THANKS—As to digesting onions, some find them difficult. Eat nothing that gives you stomach trouble.

Mrs. K. H.—Strong soap or light may cause yellow streaks in hair. Slight curvature of spine is liable to get worse and invalidism might follow.

MISS MARY.—Cataleptic states are found frequently in patients suffering from mental disease. There is never any immediate danger. Sanitarium treatment.

FEVER.—Of malaria a physician writes: The remedy is to take quinine enough and to continue to take it long enough to wholly cure the disease, not half cure it. In mild cases 30 grains a day for a week, then 20 grains a day for a month, then arsenic and iron for three months will do it.

C. O. C.—There is a wide difference of opinion as to vaccination. The great body of eminent authorities who favor it as efficacious is opposed by another great body of eminent authorities who hold that it is useless or dangerous or both. Thousands of people oppose it from conviction on religious or medical grounds. Many fear its effect on health. They are afraid that it may cause death or disease through the tainting of the blood with vicious germs. That there is an element of danger and that these fears are not groundless, is admitted by physicians and scientists who believe in the efficacy of vaccination. The vaccination wound is in itself a source of danger, especially to poor children with ignorant parents or living in unsanitary conditions. Some vaccine is impure. Dr. Stewart, the supervisor of vaccination here, says that children whose physical condition is bad should not be vaccinated.

LAW POINTS.

DOUBTER.—Minister may be garnished.

FLORA.—See or phone city or county clerk in regard to house-to-house selling in Illinois.

M. E. T.—One may write his own will, taking chances on having it in accordance with law. Son left nothing must be mentioned. Witnesses, two.

THANKS.—In Circuit Court five terms for all causes, including divorces. They begin on the first Monday respectively of February, April, June, October, December. The last day for filing is the 15th day before the first Monday.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Y. O. U.—Phone City Register.

CHEMIST.—Mercury dissolves gold.

H.—Penitentiary visitors, any day, including Sunday.

STENO.—Either phrase is correct. Your favor to hand or Your favor at hand.

F. G.—Write Land Office, Springfield, Mo., in regard to Missouri lands.

E. D. A.—To enter medical college you must have high-school education or equivalent.

NEW YORK HERALD.—If genuine original issue of 1865, with Lincoln assassination report, 50 to 75 cts.

X. Y. Z.—In Texas, cowboys are paid $15 to $40 or $50 a month. Oklahoma pay may be about the same.

ERNEST.—Low German is the German of the Netherlands (lowlands), including Frisian, Dutch, Flemish and Old Saxon.

MARGARET.—The 8 negro policemen of St. Louis are not uniformed. (Coin values are published on Monday.)

YOURS TRULY.—Celibacy of clergy is a strict rule of the Roman Catholic church. In certain cases dispensation is given.

J. A. B.—For blue paper formulas see Scientific American Cyclopedia or Davis' "Manufacture of Paper." Both in Public Library.

J. B.—One of the numerous "Stradivarius" violins which are not genuine may have misled you. Only an expert can determine values.

T. M. H.—Affect means to act upon; to produce an effect. Effect means to bring to pass; to accomplish; to complete. Tango, tahn-go.

READER.—Race horse, 25 miles an hour. In a French bicycle race last summer the prize takers averaged 17 miles an hour. Roller skater, 16.

WAG.—Ozark, corruption of French aux arcs; said to refer to bends in White River, which pursues a wandering course through the mountains.

SAM.—As to Columbus there is a mass of conflicting testimony. A Spanish scholar has declared that the discoverer was born on Spanish soil and of Jewish parents. It is said that in his youth he had red hair and freckles.

C. H. B.—If three half hens could lay 3-2 eggs in 3-2 days, ½ hen could lay ½ egg in 3-2 days, and 1 hen 1 egg in 3-2 days; then 7 hens would lay 7 eggs in 3-2 days, or 28 eggs in 4 days. (This is a "chestnut." Don't send us problems.)

X. Y. Z.—Light nickel-plating can be accomplished by heating a bath of pure granulated tin, argol and water to boiling, and adding a small quantity of red-hot nickel oxide. A brass or copper article immersed in this solution is instantly covered with pure nickel.

BILLY.—Pullman service rules require that conductor shall be at least 5 feet 6 inches tall and at least 25 years old. Other requirements are that he shall have been employed at least five years with satisfactory recommendation from former employer. Pay $75 to $90 a month. Apply to Pullman Superintendent, 211 Union Station.

ED.—In the coinage of United States gold coins all gold is .900 fine. The value of this per grain is .0775. In every $20 piece there are 516 grains of .900 fine gold, consequently the intrinsic value of gold in a coin of that denomination is $20.00016. In other words, a $20 piece contains, exclusive of the alloy used to harden it, a small fraction more than $20 in pure gold.

HOCKS.—There is no difference in the amount of improvements that a soldier or sailor must make upon his homestead and the improvements that any other entryman should make. He gets credit for the time he served in the Civil War, Spanish War or Philippine War in the army of the United States. For instance, he serves three years, it will be necessary for him to reside only two years upon his homestead. Taxation is governed by state laws.

The Open Track

Story of an Old Engineer's Last Turn at the Throttle

By George Randolph Chester.

"AND the semaphore was clear—clear as a crystal!"

He seemed quite anxious that the other man, though a stranger met casually at breakfast in the dining car, should bear this seriously in mind, and he waited for a grave nod of comprehension before he went on.

"This is the first time I've been over the route in daylight since then, and that was 10 years ago," he resumed. "When we hit the Edgarville curve I'm not going to look out of the window. No matter how green the grass might be, I should see it splotched with red, where 58 of them—men, women and children—lay moaning, or worse than that, quiet.

II.

The ex-engineer looked about him curiously as he spoke, turning his somber eyes furtively from side to side, as if in constant dread of what they might rest upon.

"It was a morning just like this, and about this time of year. We were three minutes late at Gordon Junction, waiting for the St. Louis connection, and that's why I didn't slow down much as we came to the Edgarville curve. It's a nasty bend just there, sharper than they make a curve now, with not enough clish to the roadbed, and with trees running right up to the signal towner, so that you couldn't see a foot beyond. That's why they had put a semaphore there. It was the semaphore that killed my passengers, not me, for that morning it was clear. We never heard of the semaphore man again; he cut right off across country, and I suppose he changed his name.

"His skipping out that way helped to clear me, and as soon as I got out of the hospital the company offered me my old job back; but I couldn't take it. I knew my nerve was gone.

"You see, I had my wife and three babies at home, and you know what that means, for I saw just such a group inside the lid of your watch a minute ago. Mine have all been taken from me since then, one at a time, all four of them, and as each one left me it seemed somehow connected with that terrible day out there in the field. It's the women and children that I can't get out. There was one little girl just the age of my Elsie, with the same brown curls and"—

His voice choked and he stopped, but the stranger did not look at him. He knew that the tears were smarting upon the ex-engineer's lower eyelids, and his own eyes were moist.

"You are not to blame for losing your nerve," was the stranger's commonplace remark, after he had cleared away a certain huskiness that was in his throat.

"I lost it in one second," replied the other unsteadily. "I, that had always been the coolest man of the crew in a wreck, was no use this time. Like a crazy man, I went from one to another of them where they lay on the ground, all the living and some of the dead, I guess, telling them over and over again that it wasn't my fault, that the semaphore was clear—clear as a crystal! I made them look to where both its useless arms, the red and the white, hung limp in the sunlight. One man laughed when I told him, then he cursed me, and died with the curse upon his lips. And it was his little girl that looked like mine!"

III.

Mile after mile sped away and the two travelers sat silently looking out of the window and thinking gravely. There was a long stop by and by, and the stranger spoke of it.

"Yes," agreed the ex-engineer, "we ought to be out of here. This is Gordon Junction, and the St. Louis train is in ahead of us."

"Lucky you're aboard, Billy," he said, mopping his brow. "Jimmy Dale has just taken sick in the cab, and you'll have to pull us in to the end of the division. I'll report to headquarters that you're in charge."

There was no vehement outburst of refusal, such as the stranger had expected. Instead, the ex-engineer sat silent for some time, moistening his lips alternately with a curious, slow deliberation.

"You know where we are, don't you, Murphy?" he finally returned, and the conductor gave a smile of understanding indulgence. "Can't Jimmie last until we pass the Edgarville curve? I won't mind running her in from there."

"Last!" repeated Murphy. "He's in the baggage car on a cot now, with a doctor that we got out of the Cincinnati sleeper. Acute gastritis, he calls it. Nothing to it, Billy—you'll have to forget that old affair and take the throttle."

Without a word the ex-engineer arose, and, compressing his lips, walked out of the car and toward the engine. The stranger noticed that as he went he was snapping the fingers of each hand alternately.

It was an engine of a new type, but the man who climbed into it had been for nearly 10 years in the shops of the road, and he knew every lever, every cock, every device that confronted him. Slowly he opened the steam-way, slowly the ponderous wheels began to revolve, and all at once the old tingle came back into his fingertips, into his hand, into his arm, into the muscles of his back, into his entire body.

Little by little he "let her out," and they spun past farmhouse and fields and hills, past woods and marsh and sandy waste, through rocky cut and across bridge and trestle and culvert, over brook and creek and sluggish river.

They were just nearing the signal tower when suddenly he gave a scream that set his fireman a-quiver, and, throwing himself upon his lever, he reversed. With all his might he gripped the steel handle, staring straight ahead with horror-widened eyes and tightly clenched jaws, his face gone as white as his hair. The momentum was too great to allow the train to be stopped at the tower, but with a jerk it came to a standstill at the field just beyond the curve.

The conductor and the stranger were the first to come running on ahead, to find the engineer in the empty field limping painfully with his hand upon his back and bending over, first to one side and then to the other, talking, and each time he stretched a trembling hand to where both arms of the semaphore, the red and the white, hung straight down in the sunlight.

"I can't find the little girl that looks like my Elsie!" he complained, as they approached him. Then he slowly raised his head and met their glance; his eyes were wide set, and there was in them the wild light which no man, having once seen can ever forget.

"It wasn't my fault!" he exclaimed piteously, pointing his trembling hand toward the signal tower. "The semaphore was clear—clear as a crystal! Look!"

Experiences of Gladness

By MARGUERITE MARTYN.

GLADNESS is yielding, at last, to one of young Van Stripling's numerous invitations over the glove counter and is taking tea with him in a secluded restaurant on her afternoon off. She knew she ought not to have done it. It was more for an opportunity to wear the new hat she had made for herself than anything else that she yielded.

For she had her doubts about Reggie. She had read in the society columns of his mother's entertainments to the wealthy Miss Dolorosa of Philadelphia.

Reggie has just been telling Gladness that he cares more for her little finger than all Miss Dolorosa's millions. But who would have supposed Mrs. Van Stripling and her guest would be dropping into this quiet tearoom after the matinee this Saturday afternoon! Certainly not Reggie. His manner as his mother swept Miss Dolorosa hurriedly past the table was conclusive of that. Gladness had never met Mrs. Van Stripling save over the glove counter. Of course they did not speak, but their recognition was mutual.

Between Reggie's cringing, cowering, abject attitude and the steely fire of his mother's lorgnettes, Gladness' appetite for this and future feasts with Reggie was quickly and completely spoiled. Now it requires a mighty shock to turn Gladness' normally healthy appetite from the prospect of lobster Newburg and nesselrode ice cream. Still Gladness is glad that she found out so soon and at no greater sacrifice just what a cad Reggie Vanu Stripling was.

How the Pussy Willow Grew—

By Mrs. F. A. Walker.

ONE night the fairy queen had all her fairies gathered around her. She was telling them how thankful they should be that they were happy and that they had such a beautiful world to live in.

"And that is the reason for your happiness," she explained. "You do good and bring happiness to others and are always busy. If you did not work and had nothing to do but look around for amusement you would soon become restless and dissatisfied, and long for things that others have.

"But, of course, fairies never long for things that mortals have, so all this talk is quite needless."

This fairy was called Dewdrop, because it was her duty every morning just before sunrise to gather drops from the river and put them on all the flowers.

"Tell me about your trouble," said the wise Queen. "Perhaps I can help you," and she drew Dewdrop close to her side and listened to her story.

"One morning when the south wind and gray cloud brought rain to my beautiful flowers," Dewdrop began, "I did not have any work to do, so I sat under a big leaf and watched the rain falling.

"I was in a garden and a house stood near. By and by a little girl came out and called 'kitty, kitty,' and the dearest little kitten came running up the path, meowing and swinging its tail. The little girl rolled a spool across the porch, and the kitten chased it. Then it jumped through her clasped hands and chased its tail, and then it ran up the little girl's dress to her shoulder and sat there with its head nestled in her neck."

"But why should this make you so sad, my Dewdrop?" asked the Queen.

"You see, dear Queen, we all want a kitten to play with," said Dewdrop, "and every time one of us sees a little girl with a kitten we are unhappy."

"I will not promise you anything," she said, "but meet me tomorrow night down by the river when the clock strikes the last stroke of 12, and if the moon is shining I may have something for you."

The next night the moon was shining and the Queen could be seen (that is, if one had fairy eyes) flitting along the banks of the river back and forth, back and forth.

"There," she exclaimed, after awhile, "I think there will be enough for all to have one." Then she stepped into her chariot and waited.

The last tone of the last stroke of the midnight hour was dying away when the fairies appeared by the river.

"What is it you have for us?" they all asked, running to the Queen. The Queen led them nearer the bank of the river and showed them slender brown bushes with tiny gray tufts soft and slick looking.

"But what are they?" asked the fairies.

"Stroke them and see," said the Queen.

Each little fairy touched a soft, gray tuft with her tiny finger. "Me-ow, me-ow" came softly from each tiny gray tuft, and then the gray tuft stretched out and a tiny head appeared, and a tail and four little paws could be seen. "Oh, oh! the darlings," cried all the fairies, "they are our kittens, our dear little pussy cats we had wished for so long."

Each little gray pussy sat up and looked at her mistress, and then one fairy rolled a grain of sand (of course they looked very large to a fairy kitten), and all the little gray pussies scampered down from the bushes and did all the tricks for the fairies that mortal kittens do for their little mistresses.

When the first streak of light showed in the sky all the gray pussies scrambled back to the bushes, curled up and went to sleep, and there they sleep every night until the last tone of the last stroke of the midnight hour dies away, and then if you can see with fairy eyes you will see each little gray mit stretch out and sit up and me-ow for her little fairy mistress to come and play with her.

We call them pussy willow bushes, but the fairies call them their little gray kittens.

FRECKLES
February and March Worst Months For This Trouble—How to Remove Easily.

There's a reason why nearly everybody freckles in February and March, but happily there is also a remedy for these ugly blemishes, and no one need stay freckled.

Simply get an ounce of othine, double strength, from your druggist and apply a little of it night and morning, and in a few days you should see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the light ones have vanished entirely. Now is the time to rid yourself of freckles, for if not removed now they will stay all Summer, and spoil an otherwise beautiful complexion. Your money back if othine fails.—ADV.

How to Dry-Clean Neckties

Neckties seldom get a chance to wear out. They become soiled and spotted and then you throw them away. An expense sending them to the dry-cleaners. Simplest thing in the world to dry-clean them yourself.

Here are the directions:—Brush a solution of Putnam Dry-Cleaner and gasoline on the ties with a stiff brush or whisk broom—rinse and brush in clear gasoline.

That's all—Costs practically nothing and neckties made good as new again. Putnam Dry-Cleaner has a hundred other valuable uses. Will clean laces, silks, ribbons, woolen goods, curtains, furs, etc. Can not harm the most delicate fabrics. Saves all dry cleaners' charges.

Your Druggist carries Putnam Dry-Cleaner—25c and 50c bottles. If he can't supply you, write us—we will send you large size can postpaid for 50c. 6

Why I Became a Suffragist.

Fourth of a series of statements written for the Post-Dispatch in response to the question addressed to St. Louis women who are leading advocates of equal suffrage: "What incident or reason led you to take up the cause of votes for women?"

By Miss Marie Garesche,

I AM a suffragist, first: Because I am a believer in popular government, in a government by the people as well as for the people. Now it is self-evident that a government that excludes half the people from its electorate cannot in the real sense of the word be a popular government. Consequently I would like to see our present oligarchy based on sex transformed into a real democracy.

Secondly, I think women need the ballot for their own protection. We have only to look at the laws that discriminate against them to realize that they have been legislated against as a class whose sole offense is that of differing in sex from the legislators who framed the laws. In only 15 out of 43 states in the Union have mothers equal rights with fathers over their children, and in one of these, Massachusetts, it took 55 years of hard work on the part of women, using "indirect influence," of course, to obtain it. In Colorado, the Legislature passed a similar law the year after women were enfranchised.

Thirdly, woman needs the ballot for the protection of her children, especially of her girls. Poets have rhapsodized about the chivalry of men, about their tender care and solicitude for the "weaker sex," but here are a few cold facts: In several of our states the age of consent is still shamefully low. Until the year 1864 it was 10 years or less throughout the United States. It is 7 in Delaware today. In Kansas it was raised from 10 to 18 immediately after women obtained municipal suffrage. In no suffrage state is it now less than 16 years, and in all but two it is 18.

Fourthly, I believe the state needs the voice of its women as well as of its men in the management of its affairs. Much of its business is simply housekeeping and "mothering" on a big scale. Pure food, sanitary conditions in and about the house, prevention of disease, care of the sick, education, child labor, the abolition of war—the worst Moloch of them all—these are all problems in which women are vitally interested and that I believe their ballots would go a long way toward satisfactorily solving.

Spartan Food.

Among the forgotten dishes of the past was the "black broth of Lacedaemon." "What the ingredients of this sable composition were," says a writer, "we cannot exactly ascertain. Dr. Lister (in 'Apicus') supposes it to have been hog's blood. * * * It could not be a very alluring mess, since a citizen of Sybaris, having tasted it, declared it was no longer a matter of astonishment with him why the Spartans were so fearless of death, since anyone in his senses would much rather die than exist on such execrable food."

COMBING WON'T RID HAIR OF DANDRUFF

The Easiest and Best Way Is to Dissolve It.

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

If you want to preserve your hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for nothing destroys the hair more quickly. It not only starves the hair and makes it fall out, but it makes it stringy, straggly, dull, dry, brittle and lifeless, and everyone notices it. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.—ADV.

Resinol

THE moment Resinol Ointment touches any itching skin, the itching stops and healing begins. With the aid of Resinol Soap, it quickly removes all traces of eczema, rash, tetter, ringworm, pimples or other tormenting, unsightly eruption, leaving the skin clear and healthy. It is equally effective for sores, boils, burns, red, rough hands, dandruff and piles.

Resinol Ointment is so nearly flesh-colored that it can be used on exposed surfaces without attracting undue attention.

Resinol has been prescribed by doctors for 19 years. All druggists sell Resinol Ointment (50c and $1.00), and Resinol Soap (25c). For trial size free, write to Dept. 40-S, Resinol, Baltimore, Md. Beware of useless "substitutes."

For Bathing and Freshening the Eyes

Dr. Isaac Thompson's Eye Water

has been considered indispensable for more than a century. If your eyes are weak or inflamed or you have granulated lids, this Eye Water gives almost instant relief. Try it.

Favorite Recipes

Noodle Pudding Entree.

BREAK in a bowl three eggs, add a pinch of salt, sift in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Cut dough into pieces the size of an egg and roll out as thin as tissue paper, then lay on a floured board to dry. When dry, fold lightly several times and cut in one-fourth inch strips, drop slowly into a pot of boiling salted water and boil for 20 minutes, then drain in a colander. Put two slices of ham and a little butter in a skillet, fry slowly until well done, but not brown; mince fine also one small onion and brown in a little butter; add to minced ham and mix with noodles. Line pudding dish with pie crust, not too short, fill with mixture and add one cup of cream. Cover with pie crust and bake half an hour in moderate oven.

Good Doughnuts.

ONE-HALF pint of sour milk, eight heaping teaspoons of sugar (Coffee A preferred), two eggs, one scant tablespoon butter, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, scant half teaspoon of soda, pinch of salt. Flavor with cinnamon and nutmeg. Add flour until dough can be rolled out and cut. Fry in lard which has reached the boiling point until they are a golden brown. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

"Miss Nell's Mayonnaise."

USE double boiler. In under compartment put ice water. In inside compartment make mayonnaise, using Dover egg beater. Yolks of three eggs, one teaspoon each salt, sugar and mustard. Beat into eggs (about a teaspoon at a time) one cup of olive oil—thinning with lemon juice—generally juice of two lemons. Add last one cup cream (sweet or sour) whipped.

The Year 1913 Was A RECORD SMASHER
—FOR THE—
St. Louis POST-DISPATCH
Both in Circulation and Advertising

As evidence of the relative merits of the St. Louis newspapers from the point of view of experienced advertisers, the following table showing the number of lines of advertising carried by all the St. Louis daily papers for the entire year 1913 is interesting:

POST-DISPATCH . .	11,203,640 lines
Globe-Democrat	7,073,700 "
Republic	5,319,600 "
Times ((No Sunday)).	4,757,100 "
Star ((Sunday discontinued Oct. 1.)) . . .	2,841,900 "

These figures show that the POST-DISPATCH is so far ahead of all competition in its field that it is necessary to add together the aggregate number of lines of advertising carried by two or three of its competitors in order to make a reasonable comparative showing.

This supremacy is remarkable when it is known that the POST-DISPATCH does not accept objectionable medical, doubtful financial, get-rich-quick schemes, clairvoyant or other advertising of a questionable character. It does not exchange advertising for merchandise to be used in circulation schemes, etc. Its advertising is all legitimate, bona fide paid matter at its regular card rates.

The paid circulation of the POST-DISPATCH in the City of St. Louis and suburbs, is greater than that of all the other English morning or evening papers combined.

Circulation Average Entire Year 1913

Sunday, 307,524
Daily (Exclusive of Sunday), 171,214

It Is St. Louis' ONE BIG Newspaper

First in Circulation. First in Advertising. First in Everything.

AVIATOR ATWOOD WEDS

Marries Reading Girl Week After Another Sues Him.

READING, Pa., March 4.—Harry W Atwood, the aviator, who flew from St. Louis to New York, and Miss Ruth Satherwaite, daughter of a Reading merchant, were married last night at the home of the bride by the Rev. George Scott Wagner.

Atwood's first wife got a divorce on the ground of desertion. A week ago the aviator was sued by Miss Cecile Harris, a hotel employe at Cleveland for $50,000 damages. She accused him of breach of promise.

CITY ASKED TO VACATE STREETS FOR NOTHING

A bill to vacate without compensation about nine acres of streets, mapped out, but not yet built, at the southern city limits, for the new gas and coke plant of the Laclede Gaslight Co. was sent to the Public Improvements Committee of the House of Delegates Tuesday night.

The last attempt to have the city vacate these streets without compensation was in 1908, when the North American Co., exercised a stock control of the gas corporation. The gas company was acquired in 1909 by a syndicate headed by the late Adolphus Busch and G. H. Walker. In 1908 and before, the Municipal Assembly failed to vacate the streets as requested.

The streets which the Laclede company wishes to use for its new plant lie east of Broadway, between Catalan street and River des Peres. The vacation would include parts of Polk, Donaldson, Vulcan, Waters, Lorentz, Chadwick and Victoria streets, all of which are unmade.

MEETING ON ADJUSTMENT OF THE CITY PAYROLL

Mayor and Comptroller to Confer With Assembly Committee to Consider Plans.

Mayor Kiel and Comptroller Player will meet the Joint Committee of the Council and House of Delegates on revision of salaries Wednesday at 3 p. m., to consider the adjustment of an $8,000,000 annual payroll.

The salaries of police and school board attaches are not under the control of the Assembly and Mayor, but all other city departments are. Chairman Deffaa, upon whose motion the committee was created, said Wednesday it was the purpose of the committee completely to revise every salary.

"It will be our aim to increase those that are too small and reduce the over-fat pay envelopes," said Deffaa. "We will attempt also to discover what positions are sinecures and recommend their abolition."

The first meeting will be conducted in Mayor Kiel's office. The committee is comprised of Chairman Deffaa, Councilmen Koenig, Hines and Herrmann and Delegates Stuart and Schwartz.

GIRL WINS $10,000 DAMAGES FROM WOMAN

Rose Routhiser, 16 years old, who sued Julia Corrigan for $15,000 on the charge that she was enticed to the defendant's disorderly resort in St. Charles, Mo., and kept there against her will for three days from Dec. 4, 1912, was awarded a verdict of $10,000 by a jury in Judge Hitchcock's court Tuesday.

The girl told the jury she was in a St. Louis department store looking for work when a woman approached her and said she could give her a position as housemaid in her home at St. Charles. She accepted and was supplied with carfare to go there. On arriving at the Corrigan house the girl, according to her story, was made a prisoner.

The defendant filed an answer in the case but she did not appear at the trial and the judgment was by default. She was tried in the Criminal Court in the same case and was sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary. An appeal was taken and is still pending.

ELLIS NEAR COLLAPSE AS PROSECUTOR RAKES HIM

Sways in Chair When Called Vile Coward and Death Penalty Is Asked.

CHICAGO, March 4.—"A vile coward who killed his wife and made his children motherless and then attempted to blacken her character to save his wretched life." As Prosecutor Malato uttered this denunciation of William Cheney Ellis in his opening argument to the jury today, Ellis, on trial for the murder of his wife, swayed in his chair and had to be supported.

"If Ellis receives the death penalty at your hands," declared the Prosecutor, "he will have a chance to make his peace with the Almighty. He gave his wife none."

Malato attacked unsparingly both Ellis and Fred Cauldwell of Brantford, Ontario, alleged by Ellis to be "the man in the case."

KIELY'S SON FINED $10

John Kiely, son of former Police Chief Kiely of St. Louis, was fined $10 and costs by Justice Braun in Wellston Wednesday morning, after trial on the charge of attacking Richard Fitzgerald, a shoeworker, in University City, Feb. 19.

Kiely was sworn in among other special officers who were assigned by Mayor Heman of University City to preserve peace at the Kaut-Reith Shoe Co. factory, 6629 Olive Street road, where a strike was declared last December, followed by several disturbances. Fitzgerald alleged Kiely struck him without provocation.

FOREMAN KILLS CHIEF OF RUSSIAN ARMOR FACTORY

ST. PETERSBURG, March 4.—Capt. von Stahl, chief of works at the Shrapnel Tube factory of the Putiloff armament works, was killed today by one of the foreman, who then threw himself into the electrical machinery and was crushed to death.

There has been a strike at the Putiloff works for some days, and Capt. von Stahl's attitude toward the strikers is supposed to have been the cause of the tragedy.

Jeremiah Sheehan, Liveryman, Dead.

Jeremiah Sheehan, for many years an undertaker and liveryman at 1101 Clark avenue, died at St. Mary's Infirmary, Tuesday night, after a week's illness of la grippe. He was 79 years old. He is survived only by a grandson, Elmer Sheehan, 19 years old. He resided at 1323 Semple place.

SPECULATION IS LIGHT IN THE STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, March 4.

There was only a light speculation in the early Wall street market today, as business West still was held up by the recent storm. Prices generally were steady.

Conditions in Mexico continue to check speculation, but the conservatism and good judgment with which President Wilson has met all delicate political and business questions in the past assures Wall street that a settlement will be arrived at without unduly alarming the financial district.

London is inclined to reflect a more cheerful market spirit and prices there were steady to a fraction higher before our trading began. Conditions in Paris are more hopeful, although cables still suggest minor financial difficulties in that market.

President Wilson is to address joint session of both Houses tomorrow, upon repeal of exemption of tolls for American ships.

President Truesdale issues order for immediate expansion of Lackawanna's wireless service.

The trouble in Paris is a sequence of the Balkan war and the Mexican situation, complicated by the interference of politicians with the money markets, in endeavor to give precedence to the Government loans which have been arranged to furnish France with an enormous war chest.

French finance has for a long time been loaning heavily in foreign fields, and including the Balkan states and Turkey. The war galvanized these latter loans into stiff inconvertibility, and the heavy, nonliquid obligations, were carried irksomely for the long months during which the war continued. Many banks had these, as well as Mexican loans, in considerable amounts, much to their embarrassment, and while the Balkan situation was continuing, the Mexican situation went bad, doubling the burdens. Brazilian troubles also were added.

The clearing up of the war allowed negotiation of new border-state loans, with which the old ones were to be liquidated. Then the French politicians, preferring to have the Government borrowings satisfied first, prevented the listing of the new loans. All this has produced a state of embarrassment, very uncomfortable for some of the smaller banks, and gave rise to rumors of trouble higher up, but this has been denied later.

This situation will work itself out undoubtedly without crisis; the markets there have remained steady, money rates are working lower and the Bank of France pursues its strengthening policy, adding each week to its supply of gold (which it gets each week from us) and reducing its circulation which, this week, was the lowest since early in October, 1912, at the beginning of the Balkan war.

DETAILED REPORT OF DAY'S WALL STREET TRANSACTIONS

NEW YORK, March 4.—Execution of moderate buying orders today caused prices on the stock market to advance so quickly as to indicate a scarcity of shares. Shorts who attempted to cover were compelled to raise their bids sharply. United States Steel and the stocks of independent steel companies were prominent in the trading.

Sentiment toward these shares was influenced by the good showing made by Bethlehem Steel in its annual report.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Trading began more actively today than on the early days of week. The leading stocks were in fairly good demand, although fluctuations with few exceptions were small. American Woolen influenced by the poor annual report, lost a point. General Motors and St. Louis & San Francisco first preferred advanced 1.

Bull operators took an aggressive attitude and raised prices of the influential stocks a point or so. Steel was bought in blocks of 1000 shares and upward. New Haven sold down to 65¼, a new low figure, but afterwards rose smartly.

Buyers were intimidated by liquidation in the sugar stocks, which were sold because of the new tariff schedules. Beet Sugar lost an early rise of a point and as much more. American Sugar scored a similar decline.

Professional traders sold a little stock but failed to uncover weak spots. New points of strength appeared in the industrial section. Central Leather gained 1½.

MISCELLANEOUS MARKETS

FURS—Weak, and tending down, as the shipping and speculative demand is curtailed, owing to the fact that there is not now enough time left for dealers to get goods out for the London March sales, and, too, advices from there indicate that the offerings will be larger than expected. The quality of the arrivals in this market is rapidly deteriorating, many skins from near-by and Southern sections being poor in color, thin-furred and rubbed, and these, of course, must be graded down accordingly. Skunk show most loss; muskrat steady.

Raccoon—Large, $1.10@2.90; medium, 75c @$2.15; small and 2s, 40c@$1.40; 3s and 4s, 10@75c. Mink—Large, $3.25@5.75; medium, $1.75@4; small, $1.25@2.75; No. 2, $1.10@2.75; 3s and 4s, 15c@$1. Beaver—Large, $6.75@8.50; medium, $4.50@6. Gray fox—Large, $1.75@2.75; medium, $1.25@1.75; small and 2s, 50c @$1.25; 3s and 4s, 10@75c. Red fox—Large, $3.25@7, medium, $2.50@4.50; small and 2s, $1.50@3; 3s and 4s, 15c@$1.25. Opossum—Large, 65@90c; medium, 45@60c; small and No. 2, 20@40c; No. 3, 5@10c. Skunk—Black, $2.25@4.25; short stripe, $1.50@2; narrow stripe, $1@2.50; broad stripe, 40@90c; unprime, 10c@$2. Muskrat, 5@24c. Bear, 50c @$20. Wolf—Prairie, 25c@$4; timber, 50c@$5. RECTOR SEES GUNMAN DIE

NEW YORK, March 4.—James Corrigio, also known as "Jimmy Curley," leader of a gang bearing his name, was shot and killed on the East Side by two men, who escaped without being identified.

The shooting was opposite the Grace Chapel and was seen by the rector, the Rev. Frederick Edwards. Corrigio refused to say who shot him. The police believe the murder was the result of a quarrel over the division of the loot of a recent robbery.

BANKERS' TRUST FIRM SPOT ON HOME MARKET

Bankers' Trust was a firm spot in the local trading at the early session Wednesday. Sales were recorded at $187 against $186 at the close the preceding session. The stock was wanted at $187.50 and offered at $188. National Bank of Commerce was ¼ of a point higher on trades at $130.25. Other bank and trust issues were firm.

United Railways preferred stock was steady on bids at $38.12½ and offers at $38.37½, and the common sold at $11 for a small lot. The 4s were easy on offers at $70.50 and bids at $70.

Cotton Compress stock was active and 1 point lower at $39. Other miscellaneous issues were about steady.

The St. Louis Stock Exchange has listed $3,563,220 of 6 per cent bonds of the Independent Brewing Co. Also $2,500,000 first preferred stock, $1,500,000 second preferred and $1,000,000 common.

St. Louis Money Market.

While there is no evidence of further accumulation of funds, outside banks are still very liberal buyers of the shorter maturities of choice commercial paper.

Rates today were 4½ and 4¾ per cent for all datings. Demand funds are still to be had by the better class of borrowers at not over 4¾ per cent, although 5 per cent is paid on paper not so well known. Domestic exchange market is steady at present.

COTTON MARKET EASY ON MODERATE OFFERS

NEW YORK, March 4.—An opening decline of 1 to 3 points carried May cotton and later deliveries into new low ground for the season this morning, but the market steadied shortly after the call on covering and a moderate demand from leading spot brokers.

Rumors that private returns indicated a total ginning for the season, excluding linters, of 18,970,000 bales, failed to stimulate trading during the early afternoon, and the market remained quiet, within a point or two of yesterday's close.

After selling about 3 points net higher, the market became quiet around midday and sagged off to about yesterday's closing figures under scattered realizing. The late market was irregular.

SUPREME COURT WRIT IN GARESCHE CANDIDACY

JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.—The Supreme Court today issued an alternative writ of mandamus against Cornelius Roach, Secretary of State, and the Election Board of St. Louis, directing them to show cause by March 16 why they should not receive and file the declaration of candidacy of Vital Garesche of St. Louis, candidate for the Republican nomination for Circuit Judge.

Garesche instituted this proceeding to test the validity of the non-partisan judiciary act applicable to St. Louis, enacted by the Forty-seventh General Assembly. The act will be attacked as in violation of the primary law.

PRICE CURRENT

Soft weather latter part of last week over the winter wheat belt, followed by a sudden descent of a cold wave, has put the plant in jeopardy and in some sections this follows a similar condition the fore part of a week ago. Complaints of damage to growing wheat thus far, however, have been few and the damage very small and the percentage growth condition was approximately at March 1. In Ohio and Indiana the percentage is above normal. Texas reports the abandonment of some winter-sown oats and some fears are expressed of the wheat not getting an early start on account of the bad weather. February damage on the whole was less than usual and the injury, if any, to the plant, will have to develop with this month.

Weak Liverpool cables and a favorable weather map gave bear traders the edge in wheat Wednesday. Business was purely professional, however, and the decline in prices averaged only a fraction.

Corn futures were irregular on a light trade, but the market apparently is working into a stronger position and professionals are favoring the bull side on the breaks. Oats were easy.

The weakness in America yesterday and continued favorable reports from the American winter wheat belt and expectations of liberal reserves caused realizing at the opening in Liverpool and prices were ⅜ to ⅝ lower with the principal weakness in July. Plate offers are cheaper and the demand from the Continent shows a paucity. European crop advices are generally favorable and is considered that they are holding good reserves. Following the opening there was dullness with the tendency lower and an additional decline of ⅛ occurred in May. At 1:30 p. m. the undertone was easy and values ½ to ⅝ lower than yesterday.

Corn opened ⅛ lower and later further declined ⅛ to ¼, with a disappointing spot demand, larger tenders than expected and cheaper Plate offers with easy American cables.

Minneapolis wheat cars totaled 374 against 287 last week and 301 last year. Duluth 25, against 19 and 18. Winnipeg 114, against 89 and 216. Minneapolis wheat stocks increased 475,000 bu for 4 days.

Liverpool wheat futures closed ¾d lower, corn ¾d lower. Paris wheat closed ½c to ¾c higher, flour ¼c to 1c higher. Berlin wheat ½c lower, Budapest ¼c lower, Antwerp ⅝c lower.

Broomhall cabled: "Argentine weather continues favorable for the movement of wheat, and also for the development and gathering of corn. Free contracts have been made for early shipment. In Australia further buying by Japan is noted and the amount estimated at 1,600,000 bu. Heavy shipments from the commonwealth are likely to cease this month."

Chicago wired: "Stocks of corn in Chicago last Saturday night were 10,250,000 bu, and there is nearly 1,000,000 bu on railroad tracks waiting to be unloaded. Stocks should be fully 12,000,900 by April 1. We find no improvement in the cash demand.

Local wheat receipts were 87,540 bu, or 1040 sacks, 57 cars local, 14 through; last year 54,000 bu, or 27 cars local, 18 through. Corn receipts 67,200 bu, or 45 cars local, 11 through; last year 61,200 bu, or 25 cars local, 26 through. Oats receipts 108,800 bu, or 86 cars local, 28 through; last year 51,000 bu, or 15 cars local, 15 through.

Clearances of wheat, 141,000 bu; corn, none; oats, 18,000 bu; flour, 48,000 bbls; wheat and flour, 357,000 bu. Wheat exports include 32,000 bu bonded; oats, 17,000 bu bonded.

Chicago wheat cars were 85, corn 382, oats 173. Estimated Thursday: Wheat 64, corn 246, oats 172.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

St. Louis cash wheat closed ½c lower on soft and hard, but considerable business on the decline.

THE ROCK ISLAND COMPANY

Stockholders' Protective Committee

At the request of the holders of a very large amount of the Preferred Stock and Common Stock of The Rock Island Company, the undersigned have agreed to act as a Committee to protect the interests of the stockholders of the said Company.

The Committee is informed that The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co. is about to suspend dividends upon its stock, which will result in a default in the payment of the interest upon the Collateral Trust Four Percent Gold Bonds of Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Co. A Bondholder's Committee has been formed and it has been deemed essential that like action should be taken by the stockholders of The Rock Island Company.

The Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, New York City, has been appointed the Depositary of the Committee and will be prepared to receive deposits of stock on and after Monday, March 2, 1914. Agents of the Depositary have been appointed to receive deposits in Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and St. Louis, and suitable arrangements made to facilitate deposits in London, Amsterdam, Paris and Berlin.

The Deposit Agreement, to be dated March 2, 1914, under which certificates of stock will be deposited, is now in course of preparation and will be lodged with the Depositary on or before March 3, 1914.

Stockholders are urged to deposit their certificates of stock without delay, as the situation calls for prompt action by the Committee on their behalf. Certificates of Deposit will be issued by the Depositary for deposited certificates of stock, and in due course application will be made for listing the Certificates of Deposit on the New York Stock Exchange.

THE ST. LOUIS UNION TRUST COMPANY HAS BEEN APPOINTED THE AGENT OF THE DEPOSITARY IN ST. LOUIS.

The Jarr Family

Written for the Post-Dispatch
By ROY L. McCARDELL

Mrs. Jarr Finds Willie Who Mysteriously Disappeared in a Department Store.

As most of the women shoppers in the big store, who saw Mrs. Jarr's distress at missing her little boy, straightened up from the ribbon and white goods counters to listen, Mrs. Jarr raised her voice in maternal lament.

She noted they took a keen, though academical, interest, and Mrs. Jarr was subconsciously aware that most of them were married women of the upper middle classes—women of means that enabled them to live in the high-rent, onyx-hailed and elevatored apartments where every luxury but children obtains. In fine, in the costly no-family family apartment houses of the metropolis there is a clause in the lease forbidding children to be born or harbored on the premises; and hence, among the dwellers in those opulent and ornate edifices, parenthood has become a lost art.

"Oh, my poor little boy; maybe he has been kidnaped!" murmured Mrs. Jarr. "Are you sure these print goods will wash? Oh, where can he be?"

"Perhaps he just went around in the other aisle, where they are demonstrating synthetical marmalade," suggested Mr. Floss, the floorwalker, coming up at this inquiry. "Shall I have some of our people look for him? Forward, laces!"

"Oh, I suppose I'm foolish to be alarmed," sniffled Mrs. Jarr. "But I'll look around. Are those taffetas on this floor that were advertised yesterday?"

"Fourth aisle, north," replied the floorwalker. "Meanwhile, if we find the child we will check him at the lost and found department."

"Oh, I hope nothing has happened him!" wailed Mrs. Jarr. "Can you show me another pinkier shade in this hair ribbon for little girls?"

"I thought it was a little boy that strayed off," said a sympathetic saleslady.

"It was, and a darling little fellow; never gave me a bit of trouble in his life, not even when sick," answered Mrs. Jarr. "For even when he had tonsilitis he was SO brave and used to say, 'Don't cry, mamma. If I die I will go to heaven and never see papa again!' Oh, where can he have gone? Where can he have gone? How many yards in this remrem-remnant?" and here she sobbed. "Won't it be sold for 60 cents a yard because it IS a remnana?"

"Why, she must have two children—two children!" muttered the astonished hearers. "The cares of such a terribly large family must be dreadful!"

"But the hour of emancipation has struck!" remarked a prosperous militant suffragette. "Think of a woman giving up her lifework, her moments to cultivate herself for the cares of excessive progeny! Two children—actually two children!" And they all regarded Mrs. Jarr with greater wonder, and, in truth some alarm, as though the addiction might be catching.

"I'll look for him at the stocking department," Mrs. Jarr sniffled into her handkerchief. "I want to see some school stockings for him anyway. Oh, but suppose I never find him!" And she tottered off.

From the stocking counter to the glove counter, only stopping to order a few articles home C. O. D., went Mrs. Jarr, still looking for missing Master Willie.

"And to think I scolded him so! To think I was cross to the dear little fellow just this morning! And now I may never see him again! What would I not give to recall the harsh words I spoke to him! And if I lay my hands on him I'll give him a whipping that will make him stick close to me after this!" And so Mrs. Jarr went searching and shopping, even to the toy and candy department, where, if she had found him, she would not have bought anything for him, but as she didn't find him she ordered a toy wagon home and bought some taffy peppermints such as he loved the best.

"Maybe," suggested Mr. Floss, whom she encountered on his rounds, "maybe he is waiting for you in the boys' clothing department, where he knew you were going?"

This proved to be the solution of the mystery of the missing Master Jarr. He was found coming out of the try-on room proudly wearing what he had ordered—"long pants."

Not a Knocker.

A WORKER in one of the settlements was speaking to some boys with reference to Roman history. He touched upon the doings of Nero, giving a vivid picture of the cruelty of the Emperor. It seemed to the speaker that he had fixed the idea of injustice and wickedness in the minds of his hearers. Then he began to ask a few questions.

"Boys, what do you think of Nero?"

"Well, Clancy," said the lecturer, making an individual appeal, "what do you think of Nero? Would you say he was a good man?"

Clancy hesitated. Finally, after again being urged to reply, he did so in these words:

"Well, he never done nothin' to me."—Boston American.

The Wrong Tree.

THE explorer's fair companion was listening with almost breathless interest to his account of how he had been caught in the forest in a thunderstorm of unusual severity. His description was so vivid that she could fairly hear the thunder crashing and see the lightning flashing. He continued: "And amidst this warring of elements I shrank closer and closer to the tree under which I stood, expecting every moment that it would be the first to be struck. I felt fear for the first time in my life."

"How dreadful!" she exclaimed, interrupting him. "But why didn't you run to some other tree?"—Puck.

Pa's Diary

By Hazen Conklin.

I HAD it all set in my mind what I was goin' to write down tonight, but when I woke up this mornin' I was reminded of somethin' nearer my soul, as Ma would say. Leastwise there's only one thing comin' between and that's my undershirt. I know it ain't modest to mention such things, but this is a secret book, so I guess I can venture that I was alludin' to my pajamas.

That's another thing that advertisin' feller done for me. Leastwise he opened the way for Ma to do it, and she done it good and proper. We hadn't been moved into our new house on the avenue a week before she come to me and says:

"Dan'l, I've threw away all your nightgowns and bought you 10 suits of pajamas."

"What's them?" I asked.

"They're silk suits for you to wear to bed," she says.

Then she trotted some of 'em out to show me.

"Sufferin' mackerel!" I says; "are you goin' to make me wear a uniform like the feller you got to open the front door?"

Then Clarice came in. We christened her Clarissa in the Methodist Church out in the State, where we come from before the consolidation, but she ain't Clarissa no more.

"Why fawther," she says, "how absurd! It's hopelessly middle-claws to wear anythin' else!"

"Does men folks really wear them things?" I asked, seein' righth away, though, that there wasn't no use arguin' the matter.

"Of course," says Ma.

Some of 'em was pink and some was lavender and some was white, with faint colored dots and stripes.

"Why didn't you get some sort of substantial like?" I asked, fingerin' 'em. "And why didn't you pick out some nice, bright green ones, so's I wouldn't feel so conspicuous in 'em?"

Clarice gave me a disgustful look. "Fawther," she said (I used to be Pa but I ain't no more), "your tastes are so plee-bean!"

They's a lot of words Clarice learned at finishin' school that I don't understand. But I let it go. I'm a vegetable. Anyway, seein' as my nighties was threw away there wasn't no use of holdin' out, so I wore the new contrivances to bed.

But I didn't sleep much. Nor I ain't really had a good night's sleep since, neither. In the first place they was a little too scant, Ma not bein' used to buyin' things for me with a size number, and the clerk sort of guessin' by her description that I was more spindlin' and less stubbed in my build. Next mornin' I says to Ma:

"Ma, I guess I'll have to go back to the nighties. I'm a restless sleeper and I didn't dare thresh around any last night for fear I'd spoil them pajamas so's you couldn't take 'em back and exchange 'em."

"No, Dan'l," she says, "you can't wear your nightgowns. It isn't done. It would look out of place."

"What do I care how it would look?" I asked. "We ain't goin' to burn the house down so's the neighbors can see me runnin' around."

But Ma was set, and pajamas it's been ever since. It's three months now and I ain't got used to 'em yet. I feel mornin's as though I was dressed up in a tight belt and a bow necktie. I ain't never dast to see how I look in 'em—it's enough to know how I feel in 'em!"

The Day's Good Stories

The Swineherd.

THIS story is being told of a certain Bishop who has a pleasant habit of chatting with anybody he may meet during his country walks.

The other day he came across a lad who was looking after some pigs by the roadside, and the Bishop paused to ask him what he was doing, that being his usual opening to conversation.

The Bishop nodded his head thoughtfully. "Ah, is that so?" he commented. "And how much do you earn a week?"

"Two shillin's," was the reply.

"Only two shillings," remarked the Bishop; then he continued pleasantly: "I, too, am a shepherd, but I get more than two shillings."

The lad looked at him seriously for a minute, then he said slowly: "Mebbe you gets more swoine nor me to moind!"—Pearson's Weekly.

Too Dangerous.

"Great, isn't it?" said the interested constituent.

"It may be great," the Senator admitted, "but it ain't going to catch me. Just as soon as I began thinking for transmission some detested meddler would hang a thought dictophone on the nearest bunch of airwaves."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
